74 YEARS' RECORD BROKEN BY STORM IN MIDDLE WEST

Millions of Dollars Damage Done to Fruit and Vegetables.

Weather Bureau, However, Believes Relief Will Set in Sunday.

HIGHLANDS TO OPEN

Real Flakes Fall on Painted Snow That Decorates Scenic Railway.

In honor of the day set for the season's first summer garden opening, winter played a return engagement in St. Louis Saturday, and a snowstorm, as fast and furious, while it lasted, as any ever shown on the stage, furnished realistic effects.

The temperature shortly after 8 a. m. reached 28.4 degrees, the coldest weather on any day later than April 20 in any of the 74 years covered by the local Weather Bureau's records. The spectacular snowstorm was the heaviest seen here so late in the season in 20 years.

The snow and the cloudiness lessened the damage to crops and fruit. Forecaster Smith expressed the hope that these had not been ruined, but he predicted more freezing or below-freezing weather for tonight. Tomatoes, cucumbers, and other tender vegetables are believed to have perished.

Reports from Unionville, Mo., and from Keokuk, Io., showed a temperature of 26 degrees, which would be very hard on crops.

"It takes a temperature as low as 28, continued for several hours," said Forecaster Smith, "to do great damage to fruit and hardy crops. As the temperature here did not fall to quite 28, and was at 28.4 for probably but a few moments, I do not believe there has been wide damage to apples and peaches.

"The records kept in this office since 1836 do not show so low a temperature on this date, or at any time after April 20. The nearest approach was 59 years ago, when, on May 2, 1851, the record was 29 degrees."

Saturday was the day set, on bills posted all over the city, for the opening of Forest Park Highlands, first of the city's summer gardens to risk the vicissitudes of a St. Louis spring.

A few days ago the principal new attraction of the Highlands, a scenic railway through the Swiss Alps was finished by painters, who put the crowning touches of "snow" on the canvas Alps. Real snow fell on them, in big flakes, for more than an hour Saturday. But the management announced that the opening would take place just the same, and added "or snow" to the "rain or shine" line on the bill.

Farmers in different parts of St. Louis County said Saturday morning that great damage had been done to fruit and more will be done if the cold weather continues. At Clayton and in other parts of the county the temperature was 26 degrees above zero. Strawberries are believed to have been destroyed in all parts of the county except around Valley Park and Baldwin, where the fields were protected somewhat by the Meramec bluffs from the killing wind.

Peach, pear and apple trees are thought to be all right, except that the stems are frozen, which will cause the fruit to fall off. It is possible that the cherry stems are also frozen. Beans are killed and potatoes damaged. Blackberries and raspberries are not damaged. In some places the grapes are killed.

Intermittent snow flurries after 6 a. m., at Edwardsville, and a sudden drop in the temperature to 31 degrees, damaged fruit and garden truck in that vicinity. The bean crop there is said to be killed, and half of the sweet corn in the gardens perished in the slight freeze.

Fruit in the city orchards is sheltered to some extent by the forests on the bluffs surrounding Edwardsville and can stand a further drop of 5 degrees. Wheat on the high ground in the farm districts is in bad shape, but in the valleys it has not been damaged. Field corn has not developed enough to be hurt to any large extent, but it is feared that if the freezing weather continues the crop will be injured.

The fruit crop around Jerseyville was practically ruined a week ago by a heavy hailstorm, when the windows of houses were smashed and greenhouses destroyed. What was left of the fruit is being frozen.

Reports from the American Bottoms, near East St. Louis, Saturday, were that hundreds of acres of fruit, principally apples, peaches and cherries, have been greatly damaged, and are in danger of ruin from further cold. Stephen Lepage of Edgemont said it would be impossible to estimate the extent of the loss until the sun should come out.

MISSOURI REPUBLICANS HAD TO GIVE UP THE SHIP
UNIQUE
APR. 23rd 10

"Speaking about weather," said the man who eats pie for breakfast—

"It snowed," said the one with the corn cakes.

"Are the White Sox responsible for this Chicago weather?"

"Maybe so. A case of revenge. We froze 'em out Thursday, y' know."

"Hear that joke about Big Bill?"

"No. What?"

"The Business Men's League is going to salute him with little flags."

"Here's another merry wheeze."

"What's that?"

"Pat Crowe, the kidnaper, was caught napping. Robbed by a highwayman."

"Good gag. Here's another. 'Silent Cy' Walbridge has resigned from the Republican State Committee."

"What does he say about it?"

"Not a word. But listen. One of the big summer gardens opens today."

"In the winter. But here's one that'll frost you. Republicans started from Kansas City by boat, and they had to give up the ship."

"Not enough sand in their craws?"

"No; too much sand on the bar."

"They ought to have taken a little water on the side."

"Probably did, but not enough."

The official forecast: Fair tonight and Sunday; temperature below freezing tonight; slightly higher temperature Sunday and decreasing northwesterly winds.

The stage of the river is 12.7, a fall of .1.

Missouri—Fair Saturday night and Sunday; freezing temperature Saturday night.

Illinois—Partly cloudy Saturday night and Sunday, with snow flurries in north portion Saturday night; continued cold, with freezing temperature.

WIFE COMMENCES INSANITY SUIT FOR VON WEDELSTAEDT

She Petitions to Have Guardian Appointed for Clubman in Hospital.

WANTS TO LEAVE CITY

Must Appear in Proceedings Before Probate Judge April 26.

An information was filed in the Probate Court Saturday by Mrs. Margaret von Wedelstaedt, wife of R. Park von Wedelstaedt, alleging that her husband is of unsound mind and incapable of managing his affairs. She asks the court to appoint a guardian for him. The summons to appear in the sanity inquiry was served upon Von Wedelstaedt in his cell in the observation ward of the City Hospital by Deputy Sheriff Nichols.

In an affidavit filed with the petition, Mrs. Wedelstaedt swore that her husband's estate consists of personal property valued at not more than $500. She is represented in the matter by the law firm of Henderson & Becker.

Judge Holtcamp set April 26 as the date for the hearing. A jury must pass upon Von Wedelstaedt's sanity before the court will appoint a guardian, as requested by the wife. If it is found that he is of unsound mind, it will be for the guardian to decide whether he shall be confined in an institution for the insane.

Wanted to Go to Chicago.

Von Wedelstaedt's wife and his mother visited him at the City Hospital Friday night. His mother took him a box of carnations and his wife gave him a box of candy. Von Wedelstaedt told his wife that he desired to go to Chicago as soon as the arrangements could be completed by his brother, a Chicago physician. His wife told him that it was her desire that he remain in Ct. Louis.

"I've had only bad luck since I have been in St. Louis, and I want to get away," he said.

Von Wedelstaedt had discarded the hospital garb and was dressed Saturday in a neat suit of blue serge, and wore a new pair of tan shoes.

In Friday's issue we showed how the POST-DISPATCH beat its three nearest competitors combined in the volume of St. Louis Merchants' display advertising, on Tuesday and Thursday.

Today we add the figures for yesterday, Friday, the 22d, showing that the Globe-Democrat, Republic, Times and Star, four competitors combined, carried a total of 83 columns of St. Louis merchants' display advertising, while the POST-DISPATCH alone carried 82 columns, or only one column less than all four of its competitors added together.

A few of the reasons for the preference of the St. Louis merchants for the POST-DISPATCH over all of its competitors are:

1st. The sales of the POST-DISPATCH in St. Louis and suburbs are greater than those of all of its competitors combined in the same field.

2d. Because it is the Home Paper of St. Louis. The only paper in many homes. The one paper in every home.

AVIATOR FORCED DOWN BY COLD; $50,000 HALF WON

Graham White, in London to Manchester Flight, Still Hopes for Prize.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 23.—Graham White, the English aviator who started this morning on a biplane flight from Wormwood Scrubs, London, for Manchester, in an attempt to win the prize of $50,000 offered by a morning newspaper, had accomplished more than half of the journey when compelled to descend on account of the intense cold. He hoped, however, to complete his flight this afternoon.

The distance between London and Manchester is 186 miles, and under the terms of the prize offered only two descents are permitted. White used a Farman biplane. He reached Rugby, the first stopping place, in two hours, and after an hour's rest, reascended, intending to fly to Crewe, where he had arranged to make his second descent.

A few miles north of Rugby the aviator encountered a cold north wind and after completing 115 miles of the trip he was compelled to alight. Today there was a sudden change from warm to wintry weather and unless the wind moderates it is doubtful whether the aviator can complete his flight in one day as is required.

White later announced he expected to resume his voyage between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon and was hopeful of reaching Manchester before dusk. Whether he succeeds or fails, the flight already achieved easily beats all previous air journeys made in this country.

Everywhere along the route persons turned out in great crowds and cheered the aviator, whose aeroplane appeared to travel faultlessly at a height varying from 1400 to 1500 feet. Sometimes for miles together it raced along at a mile-a-minute speed, overtaking and passing many trains traveling in a like direction.

When White descended, a few miles beyond Rugby, he was numb from the cold. He wrapped himself in a fur cloak and made use of a muff offered by Lady Denbigh, who was among the spectators at the landing place.

CHINESE TROOPS BEHEAD 13 RINGLEADERS OF THE MOBS

PEKING, April 23.—The beheading of 13 leaders of the anti-foreign mobs in Changsha has tended to inflame the populace and the feeling against the missionaries, their converts and foreigners is more bitter than it has been heretofore. The executions were conducted by the Government troops immediately on their arrival at the scene of trouble.

Further reports of pillage and murder reached here today in spite of the cutting of telegraph wires by mobs. Refugees, native Christians, are abandoning their homes and following the missionaries.

It is believed that the presence of 3000 troops in Changsha and the fact that gunboats in the Siang River have their guns trained on the town, will prevent a repetition of the most serious disorders, in which the city was partly burned.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The proposed American South Polar expedition under the joint auspices of the Peary Arctic Club and the National Geographic Society has been abandoned for this year, according to an announcement made here today.

ASSESSMENT ON BROADWAY TO BE CUT $942,095

Board of Equalization Orders Brinkop to Make Reduction.

Pursuant to orders made by the Board of Equalization before adjourning, Assessor Brinkop Saturday began to figure individual reductions in the assessed valuation of property fronting Broadway, between Pine and St. Charles street, which will total $942,095.

The Broadway property, between Pine and St. Charles streets, was assessed at $7,341,250. The west side was assessed at $3,181,850 and the east side at $4,159,400. The reduction ordered by the board averages 12½ per cent—10 per cent for the west side and 15 per cent for the east side.

The reduction on the assessment for the east side of the street will amount to $623,910, and for the west side to $318,185. The loss in taxes to the city will amount to $13,670.

Assessor Brinkop says that the reductions were ordered after Broadway property owners and lessees besieged the board with figures to prove that business was going west. Brinkop says that the Broadway property owners had evidence to show that leases in some cases were being given on Broadway for 50 per cent of what they formerly commanded. He says he personally investigated a list of vacant upper stories that was submitted to the board and found it correct.

Twenty-six Broadway property owners will be benefited by the reduction in the assessed valuation. The National Bank of Commerce and the Third National Bank will be among the others to profit by it.

It had been anticipated that there would be a raise in the assessed valuation of the real estate of the city this year amounting to $15,498,390. This figure now is cut to $14,556,195.

SULTAN OF TURKEY HAS A BAD CASE OF MEASLES

Royal Physicians Ten Days in Finding Out What Ailed Mehmed V.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 23.—Sultan Mehmed V is suffering from the measles and except for the spots that have broken out all over him, is doing well. He has been ill for several days.

It was not until today, however, that physicians were able to diagnose the case. It is hinted that the several Mesdames Mehmed are leaving their lord and master severely alone in his illness for fear of carrying the disease back to the children.

POISONED STEAK CAUSED MOODY'S DEATH, IS VERDICT

Coroner's Jury Directs State's Attorney to Investigate Chicago Tragedy.

CHICAGO, April 23.—That Alexander Moody was murdered a coroner's jury decided at the close of the inquest in the case of the pie manufacturer, who died February 20. The jury found death was due to arsenical poisoning, and that the fatal drug had been placed, by persons unknown, in meat served to Mr. Moody in his own home.

By the finding the State's Attorney is called on to conduct a further investigation into the case, with the object of apprehending those guilty.

The verdict was:

We, the jury, find that Alexander Moody came to his death from arsenical poisoning; said arsenical poison injected into hamburger steak in large quantities. And from the evidence presented, we, the jury, are unable to determine who placed the arsenic in the hamburger steak, but believe that a crime has been committed, and therefore recommend that the authorities investigate, with a view to ascertaining who the guilty person or persons are, and when ascertained we recommend that they be held to the Grand jury.

Mrs. Moody, the widow, was the chief witness. Harry Moody, the second son, also testified. Mrs. Moody said she did not believe her husband died of arsenical poisoning, despite the statement of Dr. Haines.

"I believe my husband died of heart disease. That is what Dr. Hartman, who attended him in his last illness, said," she replied to a question by Coroner Hoffman. "We had the usual small differences that arise between husband and wife, but we never had any serious quarrels. I know that my husband did not commit suicide; he wanted to live. If he was poisoned, someone else did it. He did not put any poison in the hamburger steak; of that I am certain."

BROWNS-WHITE SOX GAME PREVENTED BY THE COLD

Although the snow was driving fitfully throughout the day and the thermometer was at freezing the greater part of the morning, it was not until 2 o'clock that the management of the Browns decided it was too chill to attempt a battle. The White Sox remain over until Sunday, according to the schedule, and will play the Browns rain, shine or freeze, according to Secretary Lloyd Rickart of the home club. Frank Smith will pitch for the White Sox, and probably Waddell for the Browns.

Cubs-Cincinnati Game Off.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Chicago-Cincinnati National League baseball game is postponed; snow.

ROOSEVELT WARNS PARISIANS AGAINST RACE SUICIDE EVIL

Former President Tells Frenchmen Nature Severely Punishes Willful Shirking.

HE PUTS RIGHTS OF MAN ABOVE PROPERTY RIGHTS

"Good Man Should Be Strong and Brave," He Asserts, "Ready to Fight If Need Arises" —Condemnation for the Idle, Praise for the Worker.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, April 23.—Theodore Roosevelt, speaking on "Citizenship in a Republic," in the Sorbonne this afternoon, made a vigorous attack on race suicide. He told a tremendous audience composed of members of the French Cabinet, students from the University of Paris and distinguished guests, that the greatest of all curses is the curse of race suicide, and the "severest of all condemnations should be that visited upon willful refusal to assume the responsibilities of parenthood." He declared that the failure of a nation to increase is a misfortune, and that when the failure is deliberate and willful, it is a crime that nature punishes heavily. The speech was delivered in French, and was listened to attentively.

In referring to human rights and property rights, Col. Roosevelt said: "My position as regards the moneyed interests can be put in a few words. In every civilized society property rights must be carefully safeguarded. Ordinarily, and in the great majority of cases, human rights and property rights are fundamentally and in the long run, identical; but when it clearly appears that there is a real conflict between them, human rights must have the upper hand; for property belongs to man, and not man to property."

In opening, Col. Roosevelt paid tribute to "so august a body in this institution and then said in part:

"Today I shall speak to you on the subject of individual citizenship, the one subject of vital importance to you, my hearers, and to me and my countrymen, because you and we are citizens of great democratic republics. A democratic republic such as each of ours—an effort to realize in its full sense government by, of, and for the people—represents the most gigantic of all possible social experiments, the one fraught with greatest possibilities alike for good and for evil.

"The success of republics like yours and like ours means the glory, and our failure the despair, of mankind; and for you and for us the question of the quality of the individual citizen is supreme. Under other forms of government, under the rule of one man or of a very few men, the quality of the rulers is all-important. If, under such governments, the quality of the rulers is high enough, then the nation may for generations lead a brilliant career, and add substantially to the sum of world achievement, no matter how low the quality of the average citizen; because the average citizen is an almost negligible quantity in working out the final results of that type of national greatness.

All Work Together.

"But with you and with us the case is different. With you here, and with us in my own home, in the long run, success or failure will be conditioned upon the way in which the average man, the average woman, does his or her duty, first in the ordinary, everyday affairs of life, and next in those great occasional crises which call for the heroic virtues.

"The average citizen must be a good citizen if our republics are to succeed. The stream will not permanently rise higher than the main source; and the main source of national power and national greatness is found in the average citizenship of the nation. Therefore, it behooves us to do our best to see that the standard of the average citizen is kept high; and the average cannot be kept high unless the standard of the leaders is very much higher.

LA SORBONNE HAS 10,000 STUDENTS; DATES FROM 1257

LA SORBONNE is one of the oldest and greatest institutions of learning in Europe. It was founded in 1257 by Robert de Sorbon, who was born Oct. 9, 1201. This priest, famed for his piety and eloquence, was chaplain and confessor to King Louis IX, known as Saint Louis.

The institution was favored by the Vatican and up to the French Revolution had great power in the church. The faculty handed down decisions like a high court. It intervened in the trial of Jeanne d'Arc, denounced Luther's views and condemned many books.

The body of Richelieu, who aided the institution in many ways, rests in the chapel. Printing was introduced into France and fostered by La Sorbonne.

After the Revolution, the theological faculty was abandoned, and the work given to arts and science. Sorbonne has 10,000 students and 100 professorships.

"It Is Not the Critic Who Counts in Life," Col. Roosevelt Declares

"It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat. Shame on the man of cultivated taste who permits refinement to develop into a fastidiousness that unfits him for doing the rough work of a workaday world.

"Among the free peoples who govern themselves there is but a small field of usefulness open for the man of cloistered life who shrink from contact with their fellows. Still less room is there for those who deride or slight what is done by those who actually bear the brunt of the day; nor yet for those others who always profess that they would like to take action, if only the conditions of life were not what they actually are.

No Use for One Who Has Nothing.

"The man who does nothing cuts the same sordid figure in the pages of history, whether he be cynic, or fop, or voluptuary. There is little use for the being whose tepid soul knows nothing of the great and generous emotion, of the high pride, the stern belief, the lofty enthusiasm, of the men who quell the storm and ride the thunder. Well for these men if they succeed; well also, though not so well, if they fail, given only that they have nobly ventured, and have put forth all their heart and strength.

"It is war-worn Hotspur, spent with hard fighting, he of the many errors and the valiant end, over whose memory we love to linger, not over the memory of the young lord who 'but for the vile guns would have been a soldier.'

"Let those who have, keep, let those who have not, strive to attain, a high

HADLEY TO SUBMIT HOME RULE IDEA TO STATE COMMITTEE

Has Plan All Ready for Meeting of Republicans at Capital Today.

FAVORED FOR SENATOR

Many Want Governor to Run Against Warner for Nomination.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 23.—Gov. Hadley's home rule platform will be discussed by the Republican State Committee at a dinner at the executive mansion tonight. The Governor has requested Homer Hall of Sedalia to outline to the committee a plan for giving home rule to St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph.

If the advice of Gov. Hadley is followed the Republican committee will request the Democratic State Committee to join it in a movement to submit to the voters in November a constitutional amendment, conferring power upon the cities to adopt home rule.

Gov. Hadley said today that he hoped the St. Louis Board of Freeholders, the Civic League and the City Club of Kansas City will agree upon a home-rule bill.

"I am willing to leave the home-rule bill to these three organizations of civic experts," said the Governor. "If they will agree upon a bill, I will urge the Republican organization to adopt it and invite the Democrats to join with us in having it enacted into a law. The Republicans and Democrats seem to be of one mind regarding home rule. If the Democrats do not join us the Republicans will take up the proposition and put it through."

The Governor also will request the State Committee to formulate plans for redistricting the congressional and senatorial districts of the State. The Governor says 50,000 Republicans are disfranchised in the senatorial and congressional districts by the Democratic gerrymanders.

At noon only two members of the Republican Committee, which is scheduled to meet at 2:30 p. m., had arrived in Jefferson City.

Chairman Dickey's boat, carrying the Kansas City contingent of the committee, is grounded in the Missouri River at Missouri City. The politicians disembarked and are expected in time for the meeting. Mayor Kreismann, Otto Stifel, Chairman Keil of the Republican City Committee will arrive at 1 p. m.

Al Shapleigh of St. Louis is scheduled for election as treasurer of the Republican State committee to succeed Cyrus P. Walbridge, resigned. There is much speculation over the senatorship. A majority of the members of the committee are said to be opposed to Senator Warner, who is expected to be a candidate for re-election.

Gov. Hadley may be pressed into the race. The advance guard of Republicans here believe the only chance to hold the State in line is for Gov. Hadley to get into the race. Gov. Hadley is a progressive Republican, while Senator Warner is an Aldrich-Payne follower. Lib Morse of Excelsior Springs is here to make a demand upon the committee in the name of 6000 postmasters and 32,000 pensioners for the renomination of Senator Warner. He says one Republican out of every eight in Missouri is on the Federal payroll and that they are all solid for Warner.

TAFT WILL SEE A LITTLE OF EACH GAME IN ST. LOUIS

Will Witness Start of Cardinals and Then Go to Browns Contest.

President Taft will see both baseball games to be played on the afternoon of his visit to St. Louis May 4. Or rather, he will see a part of each game, whether he sees the winning hits or not.

A letter from Fred W. Carpenter, secretary to the President, received Saturday morning by Secretary Saunders of the Business Men's League, stated that the President desired to see the start of the Cardinals' game with Cincinnati, and to see an inning or two later of the Browns' contest with Cleveland.

Walker Hill, president of the league, at once sent requests to both the local managements for an early conference as to arrangements.

YOUTH WHO KILLED GIRL AND BURNED HER IS CONVICTED

Albert Wolter Will Be Sentenced to Death Wednesday for Murdering Ruth Wheeler.

NEW YORK, April 23.—After less than two hours' deliberation, a jury in the Court of Special Sessions found Albert Wolter guilty of the murder of Ruth Wheeler, the pretty 15-year-old stenographer he lured to his room.

Counsel for Wolter, who is but 19 years old, said the German lad was too tender-hearted to harm a cat, but 12 men decided tonight that he had strangled Ruth Wheeler and thrust her, while yet alive, into his fireplace, where, soaked with oil, her crumpled body writhed and burned.

With the same waxen-faced indifference that he has shown throughout the trial, Wolter evinced no emotion when the verdict was announced.

He had been sound asleep in his cell while the jury was deliberating. He will be sentenced to death Wednesday.

Race Suicide Punished by Nature, Says Roosevelt

Returning Hunter Tells Frenchmen That Leaving Posterity to Inherit the Land Is More Important Than the Ability to Work or to Fight.

SPIRIT OF ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS TO FRENCHMEN

ON WEALTH.

THAT is why I decline to recognize the mere multimillionaire, the man of mere wealth, as an asset of value to any country; and especially as not an asset to my own country. If he has earned or uses his wealth in a way that makes him of real benefit, of real use—such is often the case, why, then he does become an asset of worth. But it is the way in which it has been earned or used, and not the mere fact of wealth, that entitles him to the credit.

ON CHILDREN.

FINALLY, even more important than ability to work, even more important than the ability to fight at need, is it to remember that the chief of blessings for any nation is that it shall leave its seed to inherit the land. It was the crown of blessings in Biblical times; and it is the crown of blessings now.

The greatest of all curses is the curse of sterility. The severest of all condemnation should be visited on willful sterility. The first essential in any civilization is that the man and the woman shall be father and mother of healthy children, so that the race shall increase and not decrease. If this is not so, if through no fault of the society there is failure to increase, it is a great misfortune. If the failure is due to deliberate and willful fault, then it is not merely a misfortune, it is one of those crimes of ease and self-indulgence, of shrinking from pain and effort and risk, which in the long run nature punishes more heavily than any other.

standard of cultivation and scholarship. Yet let us remember that these stand second to certain other things. There is need of a sound body, and even more need of a sound mind. But above mind and above body stands character—the sum of those qualities which we mean when we speak of a man's force and courage, of his good faith and sense of honor. I believe in exercise for the body, always provided that we keep in mind that physical development is a means and not an end.

Believes in Education.

"I believe, of course, in giving to all the people a good education. But the education must contain much besides booklearning in order to be really good. We must ever remember that no keenness and subtleness of intellect, no polish, no cleverness, in any way, make up for the lack of the great solid qualities. Self-restraint, self-mastery, common sense, the power of accepting individual responsibility and yet of acting in conjunction with others, courage and resolution—these are the qualities which mark a masterful people.

"Without them no people can control itself, or save itself from being controlled from the outside. I speak to a brilliant assemblage; I speak in a great university which represents the flower of the highest intellectual development; I pay all homage to intellect, and to elaborate and specialize training of the intellect; and yet I know I shall have the assent of all of you present when I add that more important still are the commonplace, everyday qualities and virtues.

Plenty of Children.

Such ordinary, everyday qualities include the will and the power to work, to fight at need, and to have plenty of healthy children. The need that the average man shall work is so obvious as hardly to warrant insistence. There are a few people in every country so born that they can lead lives of leisure. These fill a useful function if they make it evident that leisure does not mean idleness; for some of the most valuable work needed by civilization is essentially nonremunerative in its character, and of course the people who do this work should in large part be drawn from those to whom remuneration is an object of indifference. But the average man must earn his own livelihood. He should be trained to do so, and he should be trained to feel that he occupies a contemptible position if he does not do so; that he is not an object of envy if he is idle, at whichever end of the social scale he stands, but an object of contempt, an object of derision.

Should Be Strong and Brave.

"In the next place, the good man should be both a strong and a brave man; that is, he should be able to fight, he should be able to serve his country as a soldier if the need arises. There are well-meaning philosophers who declaim against the unrighteousness of war. They are right only if they lay all their emphasis upon the unrighteous. War is a dreadful thing, and unjust war is a crime against humanity. But it is such a crime because it is unjust, not because it is war.

"Finally, even more important than ability to work, even more important than ability to fight at need, is it to remember that the chief of blessings for any nation is that it shall leave its seed to inherit the land. It was the crown of blessings in biblical times, and it is the crown of blessings new.

"The greatest of all curses is the curse of sterility, and the severest of all condemnations should be that visited upon willful sterility. The first essential in any civilization is that the man and the woman shall be father and mother of healthy children, so that the race shall increase and not decrease. If this is not so, if through no fault of the society there is failure to increase, it is a great misfortune. If the failure is due to deliberate and willful fault, then it is not merely a misfortune, it is one of those crimes of ease and self-indulgence, of shrinking from pain and effort and risk, which in the long run nature punishes more heavily than any other.

Warns of Error.

"If we of the great republics, if we, the free people who claim to have emancipated ourselves from the thraldom of wrong and error, bring down on our heads the curse that comes upon the willfully barren, then it will be an idle achievements, to boast of all that we have done.

"No refinement of life, no delicacy of taste, no material progress, no sordid heaping up of riches, no sensuous development of art and literature, can in any way compensate for the loss of the great fundamental virtues; and of these great fundamental virtues, the greatest is the race's power to perpetuate the race."

Mr. Roosevelt then went on to praise the rich man who does good and condemn the rich who do no good. He also paid his respects to the orator. Then he paid his respects to the newspaper men as follows:

"Of course all that I say of the orator applies with even greater force to the orator's latter-day and more influential brother, the journalist. The power of the journalist is great, but he is entitled neither to respect nor admiration because of that power unless it is used aright. He can do, and he often does, great good. He can do, and he often does, infinite mischief.

"All journalists, all writers, for the very reason that they appreciate the vast possibilities of their profession, should bear testimony against those who deeply discredit it. Offenses against taste and morals, which are bad enough in a private citizen, are infinitely worse if made into instruments for debauching the community through a newspaper.

"Mendacity, slander, sensationalism, inanity, vapid triviality, all are potent factors for the debauchery of the public mind and conscience. The excuse advanced for vicious writing, that the public demands it and that the demand must be supplied, can no more be admitted than if it were advanced by the purveyors of food who sell poisonous adulterations."

Col. Roosevelt then described further his idea of the good citizen, saying there was little place for the timid good man. He said man must not be judged just because of success. In condemning empty idealists he said:

"Woe to the empty phrase-maker, to the empty idealist, who, instead of making ready the ground for the man of action, turns against him when he appears and hampers him as he does the work!

"Moreover, the preacher of ideals must remember how sorry and contemptible is the figure which he will cut, how great the damage that he will do, if he does not himself, in his own life, strive measurably to realize the ideals that he preaches for others. Let him remember also that the worth of the ideal must be largely determined by the success with which it can in practice be realized. We should abhor the so-called "practical" men whose practicality assumes the shape of that peculiar baseness which finds its expression in disbelief in morality and decency, in disregard of high standards of living and conduct. Such a creature is the worst enemy of the body politic. But only less desirable as a citizen is his nominal opponent and real ally, the man of fantastic vision who makes the impossible better forever the enemy of the possible good."

According to the traditional custom of the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences, Col. Roosevelt entered without formal presentation.

Emile Boutroux, who presided, after the customary routine business had been concluded, addressed the academy on the result of his observations, made during his recent visit to the United States regarding the growth of education there. M. Boutroux took Col. Roosevelt's ideal as the highest type of man which American education sought to produce, frequently quoting Roosevelt's own words in the exposition of his theme.

From the doctrine that a man who accomplishes nothing and indulges only in criticism is a parasite meriting only scorn, the speaker evolved Roosevelt's doctrine that man is born for action, to work and to struggle—in other words for the strenuous life. He said the aim of the American ideals as enunciated by Roosevelt was the development of an American soul, regardless of the difference of politics or religion.

The Duty of the Rich.

While America was open to all comers, declared M. Boutroux, it recognizes as true citizens only those who are entirely and exclusively Americans in heart and aspiration. The American spirit, he said, consists of love of national independence, faith in the power of honest effort, respect for human dignity and religious toleration. He dwelt particularly on Roosevelt's theory regarding the duty of the rich, which, he said, substituted richesse oblige for noblesse oblige.

Continuing, M. Boutroux said that society does not owe happiness to all persons, but owes to all the possibility of an honest, comfortable life. The man without fortune should first work for his family, and with a fortune he should work for the public good. To devote life to amassing gold is ignoble. It is neccessary to teach all the doctrine of work; to men of fortune the doctrine of work without remuneration.

"Greatest Voice of the New World."

The speech of M. Liard, vice-rector of the University of Paris, in introducing Col. Roosevelt was laudatory. After thanking the American ex-President for accepting the invitation of the university, M. Liard said the university particularly wished its students to hear "the greatest voice of the New World, that of the man who speaks by action as well as words, giving to the world counsels of justice and energy—justice as the end and energy as the means."

Turning to Col. Roosevelt, M. Liard said:

"You denounce the idle and the useless, but you combat also the mischief-makers and the selfish. You do not separate morality from politics, nor right from force. You are a rough soldier and a pacific thinker, a man of action, a preacher of high virtue and a living example of the virtues you preach."

America, the speaker continued, recognized in Roosevelt the embodiment of its noblest traits, but in his journey across Europe the nations perceived in him something more—the representative of a larger ideal than that of country or of race—the champion of right and justice among the peoples.

$3,000,000 COTTON FAILURE WAS CAUSED BY SPECULATION

Manager Hid Loss of Money From Firm by Issuing Forged Bills of Lading.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 23.—That the $3,000,000 failure of the big cotton firm of Knight, Yancey & Co. of Decatur, Ala., was due to a gigantic swindle, and the issuing of forged bills of lading, was admitted here by Mr. Yancey, the junior member of the firm.

Scores of representatives and attorneys for Liverpool (England), cotton firm are on their way to Alabama to investigate their heavy losses. It is declared that the exposures which are bound to follow the Knight-Yancey failure will revolutionize the methods of handling cotton in the South.

Yancey puts the whole blame for the failure upon J. V. Knight, the senior member of the firm, who has been one of Alabama's largest cotton operators for several years. A week ago Knight was thrown from his automobile near his home, at Decatur, and was kept away from his office for several days. Some of the forged bills of lading appeared, and the secret of his speculations leaked out.

BROGAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER

With the failure of any of 15 witnesses for the State to positively identify Givens Brogan as the man who shot and killed Andrew J. Magill, in the latter's studio, July 11, 1908, Judge M. M. Millard ordered the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty" in the East St. Louis City Court Friday afternoon, and Brogan was acquitted.

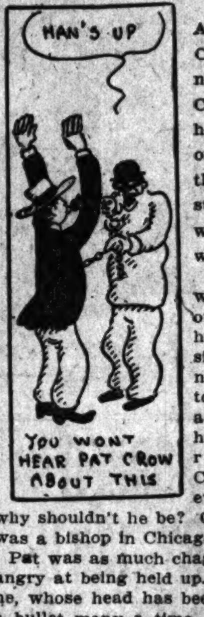
KIDNAPER CROWE CAUGHT NAPPING BY LONE ROBBER

Pat, the Preacher, Does Not Crow, Although Thief Is Caught.

CHAGRINED, THAT'SALL

But if He Hadn't Been a Pastor He Would Have "Called Footpad."

Well, here's a tale to knock you cold
That o'er the wire comes tapping:
A highway robber caught the bold
Kidnaper, Crowe, a-napping!



HAN'S UP
YOU WONT HEAR PAT CROW ABOUT THIS

MAYFIELD, O., April 23.—Pat Crowe, who kidnaped Eddie Cudahy, of Omaha, got $25,000 out of it, admitted the fact and then stood trial and was acquitted, was held up by a highway robber, who despoiled him of everything he had in his possession, leaving him nothing but a towering rage. As a matter of fact, he almost lost his religion; for Crowe is now an evangelist. And why shouldn't he be? One of his uncles was a bishop in Chicago.

Pat was as much chagrined as he was angry at being held up. The idea that he, whose head has been the target for a bullet many a time, and who fought a running pistol battle with half a dozen detectives on the streets of Omaha and escaped without a mark, should be the victim of a solitary highwayman, was so mortifying to Pat that he was not disposed to crow over it, even when the police captured the man who is said to be the one who kidnaped the ex-kidnaper's coin. He has been identified as John Burns, a paroled prisoner from the Ohio Reformatory. He is held under a $5000 bond.

"It's a good thing I'm a preacher now and had no gun," said Crowe, flushing; and on this assertion he stands pat. "Otherwise I would have called him, even though he had a full hand. That's straight."

MISCHIEF MAKER
A Surprise in Brooklyn.

An adult's food that can save a baby proves itself to be nourishing and easily digested and good for big and little folks. A Brooklyn man says:

"When baby was about eleven months old he began to grow thin and pale. This was, at first, attributed to the heat and the fact that his teeth were coming, but, in reality, the poor little thing was starving, his mother's milk not being sufficient nourishment.

"One day after he had cried bitterly for an hour, I suggested that my wife try him on Grape-Nuts. She soaked two teaspoonfuls in a saucer with a little sugar and warm milk. This baby ate so ravenously that she fixed a second, which he likewise finished.

"It was not many days before he forgot all about being nursed, and has since lived almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. Today the boy is strong and robust, and as cute a mischief-maker as a thirteen-months old baby is expected to be.

"We have put before him other foods, but he will have none of them, evidently prefering to stick to that which did him so much good—his old friend Grape-Nuts.

"Use this letter any way you wish, for my wife and I can never praise Grape-Nuts enough after the brightness it has brought to our household."

Grape-Nuts is not made for a baby food, but experience with thousands of babies shows it to be among the best, if not entirely the best in use. Being a scientific preparation of Nature's grains, it is equally effective as a body and brain builder for grown-ups.

3625 FREIGHT CARS TO BRING TEXAS POTATOES TO THE ST. LOUIS MARKETS

Beef Trust Will Have to Go Way Back and Sit Down When Spuds Arrive.

The Texas spud is on the way,
To put the trust to grief;
If it were only here today,
At prices none would beef;
For while we have the juicy spud
We ne'er can starve and croak,
And meats may fall with such a thud
That barons will go broke.
—From "Carols of a Consumer," by Wood B. Joyful.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 23.—The Meat Trust will get an awful jolt in the short ribs when tens of thousands of bushels of new Texas potatoes are dumped into the cellars of St. Louis. Rich, ripe juicy potatoes these are—marvelous, mammoth, mastodonic potatoes, surpassing in size, as becomes a true Texas product; for, be it known, the Lone Star farmer has no patience whatsoever with that time-honored lyric which proclaims:

"Potatoes they grow small
In Kansas;
Potatoes they grow small
In Kansas,
Potatoes they grow small,
And they dig 'em in the fall,
And they eat 'em skin and all
In Kansas."

So big is the new crop on hand which Texas farmers are eager to ship that there are not enough freight cars in the State to handle it. It will take exactly 3625 of them to carry away the mountain of spuds now accumulated on the soil of Texas. A hurry call has been sent out for more cars, and D. O. Ouelette, chief train dispatcher of the Iron Mountain at Little Rock, has been asked to contribute 300 of them.

The Texas crop of Murphys will be centered at Texarkana, and it will take a hundred trains to transport them to the St. Louis market.

By the time they get there they will cost the consumer from $1.25 to $1.50 a bushel; but paying $1.50 for 60 pounds of potatoes is nothing like paying $11 for 100 pounds of hog. No wonder the Beef Trust is squealing.

Old potatoes can now be had at from 22 to 23 cents a bushel, and consumers who want to roast beef barons and chop down bills when they have so much at stake may well rejoice. Potatoes are plentiful, strawberry shortcake is ripe and the fish will soon be biting.

MRS. BLODGETT IS A REPORTER; DENIES RUMORS OF DIVORCE

Wife of St. Louis Election Commissioner Sends Word From Milwaukee.

Mrs. Margarite Pannill Blodgett, wife of former United States District Attorney Henry W. Blodgett of St. Louis, who has returned to journalistic work, and is employed as a reporter by a Milwaukee newspaper, has announced that there is an understanding between herself and her husband concerning her absence from her St. Louis home, and her employment in Milwaukee. In a statement issued in Milwaukee she denies that a divorce has been considered.

In a telegram to the Post-Dispatch, Mrs. Blodgett says:

"Editor Post-Dispatch: Many thanks for your courtesy in appealing to me directly. You may deny rumors of domestic trouble."

Blodgett refused to discuss the matter Saturday.

Blodgett is a son of Wells H. Blodgett, for many years general counsel of the Wabash Railroad. He recently resigned as district attorney to resume the practice of law with former City Counsellor Bates. He was appointed Election Commissioner by Gov. Hadley, and now holds that position.

CANARY REFUSES TO EAT, DIES, WHEN SHE LOSES MATE

Policeman's Wife Says Trixie Even Tried to Drown Self for Love of Brownie.

Rostand, who made the comedy of a rooster's love world-famous, might find equal inspiration in the tragedy of Trixie, a St. Louis canary bird. Trixie killed herself for love.

After grieving for days for her absent mate, the bird sought to drown herself by holding her head under the water in the little basin provided for her drink and her bath. She was taken out by her mistress, Mrs. Daisy Harkreader of 4053 Lincoln avenue, in time to prevent her from carrying out her purpose at the moment. She then starved herself for two days, and thus succeeded, Friday evening, in ending her life.

Mrs. Harkreader and her husband, Patrolman Frank Harkreader of the Dayton Street Station, selected a spot in the back yard Saturday for the bird's grave, and the policeman said he would put up a small wooden headpiece to the memory of the lovelorn family pet.

Trixie was 5 years old, with bright yellow feathers and a spot of black breast feathers. She was a contradiction, her owners say, of the popular belief that the female canary has no voice, or that, as one of the poems in the fifth reader used to say, "He sings to the wide world, and she to her nest." Anyway, her sprightly chirrupings had the same cheering effect on the household as did the trills and crescendos of Brownie, her mate.

Brownie shared Trixie's cage for a year past. He was but 2½ years old, and his feathers did not match Trixie's so closely as the Harkreaders thought desirable. Never thinking that Trixie might wish to be consulted as to a change of mates, the policeman a few days ago effected a trade with a neighbor, and taking Brownie from the cage, substituted an older canary, Prince, whose coat was of the same shade as Trixie's.

She would not eat that day or the next. Wednesday evening Mrs. Harkreader heard a flutter, and saw the disconsolate bird deliberately holding her head under the water in the little basin. She watched to see if the bird would not remove her head, and when she saw that drowning was certain if she did not interfere, she put her hand into the cage. She wrapped up the bird, and by warming her in the oven restored life. But Trixie refused to eat, or to welcome her new companion, and pined and drooped until the end.

Fruit Worth Millions Hurt by Cold Wave

Fruit and vegetable raisers on the bluffs near Alton, were much discouraged. William Wickenhauser, a truck gardener, said all vegetables had been damaged. Ed Wahls said watermelons would have to be replanted, making this season's crop very late. William Jackson of Godfrey said another night of freezing temperature would do irreparable harm to fruit. Charles Plegge of Bathalto declared that peas and beans were a total loss.

FREEZE DESTROYS MILLIONS WORTH OF FRUIT IN NORTH

CHICAGO, April 23.—The eastward moving storm, manifested yesterday in rain and high winds, developed snow and freezing temperatures in the Western Lake region and in the Upper Mississippi Valley today. In the fruit belts of Northern Indiana, Western Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin, budding trees were damaged to the extent of millions of dollars, according to reports

At Buffalo, Chicago, Milwaukee, Dubuque and other cities in the path of the storm, the temperature dropped from 22 to 28 degrees over night.

Lake Michigan was lashed into a fury. The Goodrich line steamer Iowa was washed ashore between Kenosha and Racine, Wis., but was reported in no danger. Her passenger list was small.

Because of the blinding snow and the howling of the gale, the steamer City of Benton Harbor, bound from Benton Harbor, Mich., to Chicago, was unable to locate the harbor here early this morning, her ice-encrusted hulk showing inside the river several hours late. The steamer Puritan, leaving Chicago at 11:30 last night, bound across the lake, was beaten back to her dock today by the gale. The small lumber schooner Cora was caught 30 miles out by the storm and experienced the gravest danger in making her way back to her wharf.

The official report of the local weather bureau states that the weather in the Great Lake region will probably continue unsettled with snow squalls, as the storm will move away very slowly. The report adds:

"Fair weather, however, will prevail most generally west of the Mississippi. A severe freeze will occur tonight over the greater portion of this (Eastern Upper Mississippi Valley and Western Lake) district, resulting in serious damage to vegetation.

DR. HYDE'S WIFE HELPS ATTORNEY FOR HER HUSBAND

She Assists Counsel During Cross-Examining Nurses in Swope Family.

TELLS OF CONVULSIONS

Witnesses Swear Similar Symptoms Followed Capsules Physician Gave.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 23.—Mrs. Frances Swope Hyde, quick-witted and alert, assumed the role of a Portia today in advising the lawyers who are defending the life of her husband, charged with murdering Col. T. H. Swope. During Frank P. Walsh's cross-examination of Nurse Anna Houlehan, who had given damaging testimony regarding the death of Chrisman Swope and the strange illness of Margaret, brother and sister of Mrs. Hyde, he paused frequently to consult her and used a sketch of the second floor of the Swope home she prepared.

Not only as an adviser of his lawyers, but as a comforter and companion, his wife is Dr. B. Clark Hyde's chief mainstay at this time. Occasionally she leans over to whisper smilingly into his ear; and his face, usually impassive, cold and a trifle cynical, invariably softens and brightens at her words.

Nurse's Testimony Unshaken.

Miss Houlehan finished her direct testimony this morning without telling of the meeting of nurses at which the outcry of suspicion against Dr. Hyde was raised and the remainder of the morning was consumed in her cross-examination.

In its material points Miss Houlehan's testimony was unshaken by the rapid fire of questions from Walsh, but it was apparent from the questions in which Mrs. Hyde's name was mentioned that the wife's testimony will not agree with the nurse's.

Questioned About Candy.

Walsh began his cross-examination by asking about the box of candy Miss Houlehan had said Dr. Hyde gave Stella Swope, a week before she became ill with typhoid. "Didn't you see Dr. Hyde eating candy from that box?" he asked. "No, I did not," said the nurse.

"Nor Mrs. Hyde?" "No."

"Did you see anybody eating from it?" "I didn't see it opened at all."

"Didn't you see Dr. Hyde and Mrs. Hyde eating from that box of candy that evening?" "I might have seen them eating candy, but I don't recall that it was out of that box. There was always candy in the sitting room on the second floor."

Walsh exhibited to Miss Houlehan a diagram of the second floor of the Swope home, and questioned her as to the location of the various sick rooms, pausing once or twice to consult Mrs. Hyde as he did so.

To offset Miss Houlehan's testimony that Dr. Hyde instructed the nurses to rotate from one patient to another, contrary to the custom and against their protest, Walsh brought out the fact that she had never before nursed in a home where more than one patient was ill, and did not know at first hand what the custom was.

Nurse's Notes Admitted.

Walsh questioned each witness about conversations with the prosecuting lawyers in which the testimony to be given has been discussed. Miss Houlehan said she had talked about the case three or four times with the State's counsel.

Those parts of the nurse's charts in which entries were made by Nurses Houlehan and Kellar, who already have testified, have been admitted as exhibits. Walsh wanted to question Miss Houlehan about some other entries, and a legal difficulty arose. Judge Latshaw asked whether both sides would agree to admit the charts in full. Neither offered objections.

"Am I to understand that these charts are admitted without objections from you, Mr. Walsh?" Judge Latshaw asked. "The defendant offers no objection," said Mr. Walsh. "This looks as if the millenium had come," said Latshaw.

"THE HEART OF DESIRE."

THERE is another reason besides the fact that Elizabeth Dejeans (Mrs. Sidney Budgett) is a St. Louis woman why St. Louisans should read her latest novel, "The Heart of Desire," this being that it is a rattling good love story, clean, wholesome and free of problems.

Mrs. Budgett, who made a long visit to old friends in this city recently, has temporarily forsaken St. Louis for California, and it is around the city of Los Angeles, where she now resides, that she has constructed her tale.

Miss Ashburton, child of a marriage between an Englishman and an American girl, while they were art students in Paris, and who is cast alone upon the world after her parents' death, is betrayed into a bigamous marriage after her arrival in America with James Payne, a well-born adventurer. She learns shortly before the birth of her child that she is not a wife and, when the baby comes, the father abducts it and deserts her alone in New Orleans. She comes to St. Louis upon her recovery and learns that her mother's brother, who had cast off her mother because of the marriage with the Englishman, is living in California. Not knowing whether he will receive her, she starts on the westward journey to find him and appeal to him for protection. On the way she attracts the attention of two youths, each unacquainted with her but both destined to play great parts in the strange drama of her existence. One, Horton Payne, she shuns—though he is honorably interested in her—because he strikingly resembles the man who had deceived her. The other, Richard Allison, she tolerates because he is so young and provides a sort of companionship to make her forget her misery. Payne realizes that she is in want of the necessaries of life but rejects all his adroit offers to help her. His chance comes when they reach their destination and she faints from hunger. He catches her in his arms and takes her to a hotel and provides her with an elaborate dinner. Then, when he leaves her for a moment, she flees from him and the next day she writes that there are reasons why they should never meet again.

And meet they do not, though he searches far and wide for her, until 15 years later, when he is startled to discover her in the role of a grand dame at a dinner party at a California summer resort. Meanwhile he has recouped his fortune and she has been left a million by the uncle who had in time become fond of her. The youth whom she admitted to her confidence on the train is her protege and through her wealth and influence has become a prosperous lawyer. The woman has taken her uncle's name and is now known as Kate Talworth. Horton

ELIZABETH DEJEANS

AUTHOR OF "THE HEART OF DESIRE."

Payne, in a burst of passion, tells Kate of his undying love and learns that she has resolved not to wed, but that her heart is Richard Allison's.

She chances to visit the old homestead of Horton Payne in Los Angeles, and from that visit to weave the strongest pattern in the romantic fabric of her life. She meets a child whom she fancies—Paquito Payne. Enter James Payne, her deceiver, again. He tells her Paquita is her long-lost child; and that he will sell the girl back to her. The agreement is made.

But Paquita loves a man, and that man is Richard Allison, her foster mother's suitor. Allison calls on Kate Talworth, and, from a window in her room, Paquita sees Allison kiss Kate.

Then follows a scene during which Paquita blurts out the truth—that she is not Kate's child, that Kate's child is dead, and that her father is passing her off as the dead baby for Kate's money.

Then Kate calls in Horton Payne and tells him the story of her life, and learns that there is a good reason for the resemblance between Horton and James Payne, which Kate found so repulsive when she first saw Horton on the train 15 years ago—they are stepbrothers, sons of the same mother, though as different as night and day in character!

That Kate may be happy, Horton takes his brother to Australia, and provides him with a handsome income with the understanding that he shall remain. James' wicked ways soon land him in prison, whereupon Horton returns.

Meantime, Kate has made Paquita her very own child, and events have demonstrated that it was Paquita that Richard really loved. Kate sees that they are married, and then starts to Europe. Horton Payne, undaunted, follows her, catches her aboard ship, and wins her after a pursuit of years.

VERSES ABOUT GARDENS.

THE publishers of Temple Scott's anthology "In Praise of Gardens" say the book includes "practically every passage of high poetic beauty written in English by garden lovers of all periods." It is a little volume, most daintily made and nearly all your favorite poems about gardens, flowers, grass and trees are there; but some of them are missing. Anthologies when complete are cumbersome, and grow dusty on the high shelves of libraries. It is best to apply the word "practically" which the publishers use as liberally as Mr. Scott has in this instance. He has tried the verses of the poets who loved the things he loves by his own taste, including English translations from the garden lovers of old and governing choice by a sense of propriety which is perhaps too Puritan for the subject. (Baker-Taylor.)

LITTLE ALIENS.

NO more stories of little Jews who inhabit the East Side of New York can come from the pen of Myra Kelly; but a collection of the last stories she wrote has arrived in the month of her death. "Little Aliens" is the title which covers eight tales, wherein Yiddish idiom dances in English raggedness upon the sidewalks or makes love by the teacher in the public schools, and an introductory essay, "Every Goose a Swan," which is Mrs. Kelly's record of experiences with parents while trying to teach annual processions of 50 children. The fine whimsicality, sheer realism nudging golden romance and warm sympathy which characterise all her stories, seem in this last volume intensified. Having lived and taught among Ghetto Jews, she knew them as thoroughly and sympathetically as does Montague Glass. Their sordid intolerance, their warm family bond, their generosity and financial meanness, appear automatically in every one of the "Little Alien" tales, just as these qualities clash in Zangwill's "Children of the Ghetto" or Glass' stories of Potash and Perlmutter—only the evil side is softened, thrown in as a spice and never as a reproach. Morris Mowgelowsky is indeed almost too good a boy, while Sadie Gonorowsky, refreshingly feminine and inconsistent, supplies a more human type. But it is Miss Bailey who throughout the Myra Kelly stories has been the dominant figure, and we like to think that in this sweet, earnest, understanding teacher Mrs. Kelly unconsciously depicted herself and her work among the poor who are struggling out of poverty and ignorance into American prosperity and intelligence. "THE CITY OF SIX."

"THE CITY OF SIX" came into existence in the same neighborhood with Alligator Flats, Hell's Half-Acre, Poker Flats, Dead Horse Gulch and settlements, camps and towns of similarly picturesque nomenclature. It was differentiated from its neighbors in character in about the same degree as in name, and so is the book of that title different from the usual tale of Forty-nine in much the same manner. "The City of Six"—meaning the book—concerns itself with the diggings and doings in California a few years after the first real gold rush began, but the author's treatment of the situation is more that of the interested and rather cultivated onlooker than as an active participant in the wild scramble and the exciting events. Nevertheless, romantic and dramatic incidents which verge on the melodramatic, but which the reader realizes are not overdrawn for that time, appear in the book, together with some very excellent descriptions of California in the days of the Argonauts. C. L. Canfield, the author, went to California with his father in '49 and as a boy witnessed the scenes he later sought to portray as an author. He had written one book, "The Diary of a Forty-niner," and a number of short stories previous to "The City of Six"—and then died just before the final proofs of the last book were submitted to him by the publishers, A. C. McClurg & Co.

"THE MAXIMS OF MARMADUKE."

UNDER the title of "The Maxims of Marmaduke," Charles Edward Jerningham republishes the satirical observations of society he first wrote for Truth of London. Together with these maxims, which are in the main inordinately clever, if somewhat British, the book contains a number of short essays which reflect modern life pungently.

Mr. Jerningham, who writes under the pseudonym of "Marmaduke," evidently knows his London well, and is an observer of the "new" life of greed, glitter and gilded gloss of society, and is as merciless as he is clever.

He is very quotable, and has often been quoted without receiving credit, for many of his maxims are to be recognized in the columns of plagiarizing paragraphers. Here are a few of his maxims, which might profitably lead to a fuller perusal of his book:

Never mix your women.

A man never takes so much care of himself as he does when he has a woman to take care of him.

Never lay others under an obligation; it generally obliges them to detest you.

Success amounts to little; if you succeed, you merely turn your friends into enemies, and your enemies into friends.

No woman is so good as she looks; to know that is the first step toward the attainment of knowledge of the world.

The Power of the future is poverty; combined poverty.

Bringing home a heart is a great joy; we call that love. Some look at it as a form of sport; we call that flirting.

There is none that suspects her husband more than the wife who is not above suspicion herself.

Woman's most valuable asset is—the imagination of man.

Conversation is listening to yourself in the presence of others.

Worldly Wisdom—The knowledge of how to misconduct yourself respectably.

These are the days of 70-horsepower unscrupulousness; the product of the condition is the quick-made millionaire.

The troubles of the poor are seldom so intolerable as the annoyances of the rich.

Luxury is a harder master than necessity.

Marriage is a very good thing for children—it keeps them out of mischief.

Enemies are stimulants; friends, bromide—very lowering. (Brentano's, New York.)

THE TAMING OF RED BUTTE WESTERN

FRANCIS LYNDE

A Railroad Novel
By a Former Railroad Man.

A romance of vigor and dash; of love and adventure; of a double battle—the battle of a man against the weak point in his nature, and his battle to establish authority over his lawless command on the disorganized section of a Western road.

"The story moves swiftly from the beginning, and the action grows in intensity and strenuousness as the story progresses. It is one of those tales that grip from the first paragraph. It is the sort of story that needs just the background he has given it; a setting where civilization almost merges into primeval barbarism. It is a satisfying tale."—The Brooklyn Eagle.

Is your house half a home?

In cold weather do you hate to go upstairs or from one room to another? Do you huddle up in one or two rooms or else suffer from cold? Do you constantly warn the children about going from room to room after the things they want? If you are comfortable in only, say, 3 of the 8 rooms of your house, you are getting the use of only three-eighths of what your house costs—a poor investment!

AMERICAN & IDEAL

enable you to enjoy every room, hallway, nook and corner of the house. Not only do you get the full use and enjoyment of the home, but IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators will actually pay for themselves in the fuel savings. They are so simple to run, and so thoroughly rid the house of ash dust (giving long life to furniture and decorations) that house-cleaning is reduced one-half. IDEAL Boilers are the only heaters so made that all the coal-gases and soot are kept inside the boiler—burned there—thus protecting the family health. No other heating apparatus in any way competes with IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators, hence their rapid and wide adoption in all foreign countries where domestic economy means much.

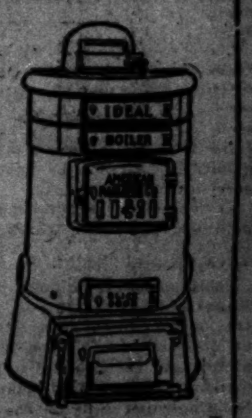
Ask your architect to specify and insist on IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators. Do not take any other. In so important a matter you cannot afford to run any risks, especially so when IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators are so fully guaranteed.

A No. 152 IDEAL Boiler and 265 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $120, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

A No. 3-25-W IDEAL Boiler and 700 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $295, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

At these prices the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include cost of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which installation is extra and varies according to climatic and other conditions.

Our catalog (free) has a wealth of concise heating and ventilating information which every owner or tenant—small or large—in town or country—ought to have. If building, or if paying the bulky bills and suffering the ills of old-fashioned heating, write, call or phone to-day. All inquiries cordially welcomed. Puts you under no obligation to buy.



ADVANTAGE 19: IDEAL Boilers have no parts to burn out, no rivets to loosen, no thin metal to warp, no repair bills.

USEFUL HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

THE JAP-A-LAC "Model Floor Graining" Process solves the problem of "What shall be done with old carpeted floors to make them attractive and sanitary?" A painter can do the work at little expense, or you can do it yourself, if you prefer.

WEATHER BEATEN front doors are revived and beautified when coated with Jap-a-lac, and "newness follows the brush." It is best to use the color nearest that of the old finish.

WINDOW and DOOR screens should be coated with Jap-a-lac each spring, using the Brilliant Black on the wire, and the Mahogany, Oak, Cherry or Walnut on the frames. It gives them new life and the wire cloth is protected from rust.

JAP-A-LAC is a household necessity, and can be used in a hundred and one ways, from "cellar to garret," and is especially adapted for finishing old or new floors and woodwork. Ask your paint dealer.

MARK TWAIN'S MEMORIAL.

The movement started by Mr. W. J. Hill of the Hannibal Courier-Post to purchase the boyhood home of Samuel L. Clemens and convert it into a Missouri Memorial of Mark Twain, has an excellent object. Whether or not the old house, which is of frame, is suitable for a memorial is a secondary matter. The main point is that Missouri should have a memorial to her gifted son who has achieved world-wide fame and popularity in literature.

Probably the Hannibal house which Mark Twain himself made famous by his undying stories of boyhood experiences and pranks would be the best location for the memorial. The final form of it can be determined when the movement is arranged. If the State does not provide ample funds for the purpose, undoubtedly the readers of Mark Twain's books will contribute all that is needed. Missouri should be first in honoring a son to whose memory all the civilized world gives honor and affection.

BRITISH TRAMWAYS.

Reports of the British Board of Trade give the number of "tramways" or street car lines, operated in Great Britain during the past year at 298. Of these, 176 were owned and operated by municipalities, and 122 by private corporations. The average fare per ride on the municipal lines was 2.1 cents; on the private lines it was 2.6 cents. The municipal roads were capitalized at $235,000,000, and the net earnings yielded a profit of 4 3-4 per cent. The private lines were capitalized at $115,000,000 and earned profits of 7 3-4 per cent.

On that showing the private lines were more profitable than the municipal lines. On the other hand the municipal lines gave a cheaper service to the people. As to which service was the more efficient and the more commodious, the figures given afford no means of judging. Assuming that the two systems in that respect were equal, the advantage to the public through the cheaper fares of the municipal lines is considerable. To an American, the most notable feature of the report is the comparatively small capitalization of both the municipal and the private lines. The total amount for all the lines of both systems in the three kingdoms is less than that for New York City alone. It is evident that while the British may know something about the operation of tramways as public utilities, they are childishly ignorant of their possibilities in the domain of high finance.

THE PATRONAGE OF WEALTH.

An interesting story comes from Washington in connection with the resignation of two of the most efficient officers of the National Women's Suffrage Association. The two ladies are reported as saying: "Certain injustices are practiced in the organization." While they do not name the author of these wrongs, it is said to be generally understood they mean Mrs. Belmont. It appears the financial support given by that wealthy lady has deprived the organization of much of its independence, and has drawn to her a wide patronage that interferes with efficiency.

This story in itself is a sort of tempest in a teapot. It is of no importance outside of that particular organization. The moral it teaches, however, is far-reaching and is of most timely pertinence to a great many American institutions. That the patronage of great wealth is deeply and widely affecting the development of our social life is everywhere apparent. Complaints are already heard of the pernicious influence upon our universities of the richly endowed Carnegie Institute. An attempt is being made through the power of that patronage to establish a supervision over education that would destroy university independence.

Similar complaints, though not so loud, come at times from the churches. For example, the congregation of the Rockefeller church habitually waits for the millionaire to do it all. So in many of the most important fields of endeavor, self-sustaining energy has fallen off because of extraneous support either given or expected from persons of wealth. Independent workers are resigning to give way to favorites of the patrons. It is a bad sign. Plutocracy is never more pernicious than when it comes bringing gifts.

STANDPATS ARE COMING.

The devoted band of patriots gathered today in Jefferson City for discussion of the prospects of keeping Republicans in their jobs will be enheartened and cheered when they advert to the galaxy of Republicans who will be exhibited to Missourians on Monday as the finest examples of what the party can produce:

It is a distinguished group of standpatters who will come to St. Louis as guests of the Citizens' Industrial Association. Failing to secure Payne, Aldrich, Dalzell and Cannon, the invitation committee showed remarkable perspicacity in choosing from what was left. James Schoolcraft Sherman, Vice-President of the United States, and fairly well known despite the obscurity of his office, will head the delegation which is coming to show Missouri. Mr. Sherman is machine sewed, machine welded and machine wound. He is so far inside the traces that he couldn't kick over them if he should try. He has never tried.

J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira, Representative from the Thirty-third New York district, is exhibit 2. Mr. Fassett has been pretty continuously in office since 1879, the one serious interruption coming when he ran for Governor against Roswell P. Flower in 1891. He has served in three Congresses and won his first recognition in public life with an oration entitled "The Blessings of Protection." That was in 1875, but he can still deliver it and often does.

Hon. Joseph W. Fordney of the Eighth Michigan District, is Exhibit 3. Mr. Fordney has been in the lumber business, in Congress 11 years. He began in the pine woods of Michigan in 1869. He has never allowed his interest in public affairs to interfere with his fixed purpose and when asked if he would take as a precedent Senator La Follette's refusal to vote on a tariff schedule affecting a manufactured article in which he was interested, Mr. Fordney said he didn't understand it. Although he is a member of the Ways and Means Committee, Mr. Fordney does not like the lumber tariff. He thinks the rate should be $1 per lath, $1.50 per shingle and $2 per board whether rough sawed or dressed.

The other two exhibits are from Indiana. Both are in a condition of temporary obscuration owing to differences of opinion at home and they are not cheered by the prospects. They are James A. Hemenway and James E. Watson. Mr. Hemenway was six times elected to the House and then promoted to the Senate. Ben Shively succeeded him. Mr. Watson was Mr. Cannon's right hand and the Republican "whip." He aspired to be Governor of Indiana, but something happened. Hard pressed by the insurgents recently Mr. Cannon sent for Mr. Watson, who hurried to Washington and devised the parliamentary trick which saved Mr. Cannon's scalp. Mr. Watson is a very clever man. He has not yet decided whether insurgents should be hanged or boiled in oil.

No Missourian should fail to inventory the records and qualifications of this splendid galaxy of standpats. Any man can have lingering doubts as to his future political conduct cleared by so doing. Coming after them Mr. Taft will appear as a tepid, indolent, insipid advocate of some kind of a compromise. And yet in Missouri Mr. Taft is regarded as something of a Republican.

◆◆◆

An Indiana Congressional District convention has indorsed Taft and Beveridge, the Payne law and a lower tariff, Joe Cannon and the insurgents. Mr. Taft has not been teaching in vain.

AN INTERNATIONAL COURT.

Secretary Knox sent to the various Governments of the world last fall, an identical note recommending the establishment of a continuous international court to which nations may appeal for the settlement of controversies. Recent dispatches from Washington announce that the note has been well received. The responses have been decidedly favorable. The Secretary is quoted as saying he is quite sanguine a court of the kind suggested will be constituted at The Hague in the near future.

Neither the plans nor the expectations of the Secretary are in any way Utopian. He does not expect or recommend an immediate disarmament of the nations. He does believe, however, that the court once established, will grow in power and in usefulness; that it will become more and more resorted to as a means of settling international disputes; that in the end the common sense of the wisest will perceive that through the court the rights of nations can be guaranteed by international justice much better than by national armies; that statesmen of progressive minds will throw their influence toward disarmament so that the wealth now wasted on fleets and armies may be used in the advancement of the welfare of their people.

We have in this plan and this prospect, a diplomacy of true grandeur of conception, undertaken by a policy quite reasonable and practicable. The court is to begin with little things; but it will be a beginning. It will have its place in the sun. It will do its work. It will be a plant of American origin, and will thrive as America thrives. It may even grow as rapidly as the Monroe doctrine. Within the life of men now living, the court, now for the first time under consideration as an issue of practical diplomacy, may become the most potent international institution on the globe.

THE SALE OF RADIUM.

Consul Ifft of Nuremberg reports that the Austrian Government has just fixed the price of radium at a sum equivalent to $81.20 per milligram; that is about $36,500,000 per pound. It is announced, however, that it is impossible to deliver radium in a pure form, so that the article offered under that name is, in fact, a radium-barium-chloride. Nor is it offered for sale indiscriminately. It can be purchased only by authenticated scientific institutions or by learned men of eminence and established authority.

High as is the price just fixed, it is so much lower than what it has been, that it is described by the Consul as "relatively cheap." Delivery is made at the risk of the purchaser; and by special messenger. As yet not a single milligram of radium has ever been sent by mail. For the purposes of sale, the preparation is inclosed in a round "radium cell," made in the form of a case, that screws together. The material used for the case is nickeled brass. The bottom of the cell is run full of lead, in which is sunk a small square hole, and in that hole is stored the radium preparation. The cell is then closed with a mica plate, so that it is not necessary to open the cell in order to utilize the radium ray. These precautions are taken because of the powerful effects of the ray. It is costly to get, but if handled carelessly the results would be more costly still.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Will Build Two "Post-Dispatch Houses."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

From the time of the inauguration of your model $2500 house contest, I have followed the same with a great deal of interest. While primarily engaged in mercantile business, I have for the past six years devoted much of my time to the building industry. Six years ago I platted Elsa place, subdivision, at Glendale, St. Louis County, and built thereon, and also at Webster Groves, over fifty houses. I am at least competent, I believe, to be the judge of a convenient model of domestic architecture, inasmuch as I have designed all of the houses which I have built. Having had this experience, I want to say to you that I consider the Post-Dispatch model house, the details and elevations of which were published in your last Sunday's issue, to be a perfect house in every detail. Since seeing the plan I have, indeed, waxed enthusiastic, especially inasmuch as I find that the designer has embraced one of my pet ideas, and one which I take upon my self the credit of inventing, namely, the combination stairway.

So well do I think of the Post-Dispatch model house that I have this day concluded arrangements to reproduce on my new subdivision in St. Louis County, Louisia Heights, two of these houses. They will be exact reproductions of this winning model, and will be known as the Post-Dispatch houses. One of them will be built of frame, while the other will be built of Missouri white limestone, in rustic rubble style. I intend to reproduce these houses exactly according to the plan in your last week's Sunday paper, and I know you will be glad to learn of its extreme popularity, evidenced by the fact that no sooner did I conclude to reproduce the house than I at once made sale of the same, and the buyer expressed herself as being absolutely unable to suggest an improvement in any way.

I consider that you have been a benefactor to the prospective home builders of St. Louis, in inaugurating and carrying to a successful conclusion one of the most interesting building plan contests ever devised.

JOSEPH BOEHM.

Price Fluctuations.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your issue of the 20th inst. I notice that "Rube" takes Bryan to task for contending that the free coinage of silver would have resulted in an increased supply of money and a consequent rise in prices, just as has resulted from an increase in the money supply through the increased production of gold and issues of national bank currency. This writer advances the theory that the free coinage of silver would have driven all the gold out of circulation, which would, of course, decrease instead of increase the supply of money. He also says that nobody has ever disputed the quantitative theory of money, and to use his own language, says that "plenty of money makes high prices." If "Rube's" communication can be taken seriously the only logical conclusion to be reached is that the free coinage of silver would have been followed by a lowering of the price level, because if "plenty of money makes high prices," the decrease in the quantity of money (which he maintains would have followed the free coinage of silver) would have inevitably resulted in "lower prices." Is that what you wish to have us believe, "Rube?"

INQUIRER.

Cheap Meat From Milwaukee.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Reports intimate that Attorney-General Major expects a victory in his ouster suit against the meat packing trust, but he does not expect to take advantage of the victory, or in other words, will not oust them from the State, evidently fearing popular protest should a meat famine occur as a result. Apparently there is only one practical solution of the high price of meat question and that is for local meat shops to buy from the municipal abattoir which is to be established by the city of Milwaukee as soon as the Socialist officials of that city, recently elected, can establish one. This plan would appear especially practical when the deep waterway channel is completed from Chicago, so that freight rates will not be prohibitive.

KRONNI KICKER.

Motherhood the Noblest "Occupation."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What think you of the census instructions, directing that a housewife, a woman, perhaps a mother of from one to a dozen sturdy Americans, being classed as to occupation, "None?" Question 19 of the "Advanced Schedule" says: "If occupied, is person an employer or a worker?" These mothers, raisers and caretakers of the infant-life to manhood and womanhood, are not even classed as "occupied," hence not a "worker." They are classed as to occupation with the idler, the sick, the infirm, the imbecile, the idiot, the "Weary Willies."

It might not have added any statistical value to the Thirteenth Census to have correctly noted the great fact these housewives have in the shaping of the nation's affairs, but it would have been a just and honorable recognition to have done so. Who dare say, these home-keepers, home-makers, the mothers of our 100,000,000 population, are not, and eternally have been, "occupied" since motherhood began. You chivalrous man, did you write "none" in the column under your wife's and mother's name in answer to the question of occupation? The writer did not. He left it blank rather than be a party to what seems an insult to American motherhood. If you did so write, didn't you in your heart protest against it?

M. D.

Quantitative Theory of Money.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your correspondent with the appropriate signature, "Rube," is evidently so prejudiced against Mr. Bryan that he cannot treat with respect or fairness a man who was honored thrice by over 6,000,000 American voters as worthy of the presidency, and who, as a plain American citizen, received distinguished honors abroad and justified foreign opinion by his words and actions. It is hardly, therefore, necessary to deny that Bryan ever claimed to have originated the idea, old as the science of political economy, "that plenty of money makes high prices." What he said was that Republicans and Gold Democrats, like "Rube," denied it in 1896, and that present high prices compel them to admit that the quantitative theory of money is correct. Another law of political economy of which "Rube" shows ignorance is that under bimetallism the dearer metal has always disappeared from circulation, when the ratio was disturbed, and reappeared when the equilibrium was restored.

Most of the leading members of the United States Congress are eminent lawyers.

The Speaker himself is an eminent lawyer.

All of these eminent lawyers are in the habit of expounding and elucidating the Constitution of the United States and telling a wayward populace exactly what that venerable document means; but when it comes to framing a five-line amendment to the Constitution all this eminent legal ability combined is unable to produce a piece of English about which such eminent lawyers as Charles E. Hughes, Elihu Root and Joseph H. Choate can agree as to the meaning.

When Gov. Hughes sent his message to the New York Legislature opposing the ratification of the income tax amendment because of the four fateful words "from whatever source derived," The World said: "If this amendment to the Constitution of the United States is defeated, a greater measure of responsibility will rest upon Charles E. Hughes than upon any other one citizen of the country."

Although it has seemed to The World that Senator Root's reply to Gov. Hughes' objection was complete and convincing, this is merely a matter of individual opinion. The eminent lawyers in the New York Legislature are unable to agree as to whether Mr. Root or Mr. Hughes is right in interpreting the amendment.

Ever since the establishment of the Republic we have been told what a fortunate people we were in living under a government of lawyers. We still regard this government of lawyers with profound respect and admiration. Indeed, we reverence it as the palladium of our liberties, but would it be sowing the seeds of an insidious revolution to suggest that it might be better for the country if a few of these eminent lawyers would learn to write the English language?"

HALE'S ARGUMENT.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Senator Hale says that if a Democratic House is elected a free trade tariff bill will be drafted and a blow aimed at Maine's industries. The industries of Maine are important, but there is no reason why the people of the United States should be robbed 365 days in the year to keep them going.

RHODE ISLAND HAS TWO.

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The retirement of Aldrich will introduce to the country a man named Wetmore. Wetmore, by the way, has been junior Senator from Rhode Island since 1894.

HAPPINESS IS SO FRAIL A THING.

HAPPINESS is so frail a thing—
Oftentimes when my love and I
Go hand in hand, and my heart would sing,
A tear there is in my dimming eye—
A tear lest happiness should die—
Oftentimes when my heart would sing—
Happiness is so frail a thing.

✦ ✦ ✦

OFTENTIMES when my heart would sing
For happiness that fills it quite,
Fear is upon me, tempering
What else were unrestrained delight—
Fear lest it perish with the night—
Oftentimes when my heart would sing—
Happiness is so frail a thing.

A BET OVERLOOKED.

If Mr. Roosevelt had stepped over into Abyssinia long enough to have killed the fellow who periodically sends out the report that King Menelik is dead, he would have performed a service beside which the faunal collection at the Smithsonian is going to be as a mole-hill to a mount.

The faunal collection is going to immediately benefit no one, but the destruction of the great liar of Adis Abeba, which we believe is the city in which Menelik usually dies, would have showered its benizons from that moment upon a too-credulous world. One had supposed that the arch enemy of liars had pleasantly contemplated the privilege. Passing within a short distance of the Abyssinian border, not being especially pressed for time, having no worthier project in hand, and having officially recognized the death of the King of Kings a couple of times during his own reign, it does seem as if he would have gone out of his way.

But he did not—more is the pity!—and this danger past, Menelik will probably die now even oftener than he has been dying.

However, Mr. Roosevelt overlooks very few bets.

Old Mrs. Manx was afraid of the Banks
And she said, "Not for my money;
I'm a wise queen bee, and the stunt for me
Is to hive up my own honey."

So she saved her dimes, and at divers times
On busy days she would wend her
Way to the Bank, and with gall most rank
Exchange them for Legal Tender.

These Bills she'd press with a soft caress,
Quite close to her beating heart, or
Hold them a while and on them smile,
Then put them beneath her garter.

But one sad day the garter gave way,
And the Bills in the street were scattered;
And all she found, when she looked around,
Was a five spot, torn and tattered.

She grabbed the wreck with about a peck
Of dirt thereto appended,
And in the sun, did marathon
Till at the Bank she ended.

With a rush and a bounce at the New Accounts,
She landed and cried, "One for Me!
My Bank has busted; I'm sure disgusted
With Elastic Currency."

Answers to Questions From Readers of the Post-Dispatch.

Write but one question. No bets decided. Business addresses not given. Legal questions must be simple. Address "Answers," Post-Dispatch, using postal cards when convenient.

ANNA C.—What wars?

J. W. R.—See Answers April 21.

RED HEAD.—See Answers March 28.

L. S.—Metropolitan Company brings its own chorus.

TEACHER.—Illinois Arbor Day for 1910, Friday, April 22.

R. S. V. P.—The trousseau is provided by the bride's parents.

MRS. H. C. B.—For cabinet and salaries see Answers March 7.

W. A.—Fishing in the lakes you mention is as good as usual when the water is clear.

N. D. O.—Illinois notary fee for attesting signatures to sworn statements, 25 cents.

ANNA HUDSON.—Write President E. L. Winthrop Jr., Board of Education, New York City.

D. F.—Crude petroleum is rubbed into the scalp to make hair grow. For freckles see Answers April 1.

E. V.—"Red Mike" Kane's case is pending in the Supreme Court. He is at liberty under an appeal bond.

UNLUCKY ONE.—Lower end of 12-foot hall is partly occupied by stairway about four feet wide. See plan.

J. D. R.—The douche you mention is only temporarily effective; it results in no permanent change; it is harmless.

KRAEMER.—Be comforted. Wife and husband both having extended hand to you, the handshaking was correct.

B. J.—In Illinois a policeman or a Constable may go into your saloon and arrest any one who is disturbing the peace.

BARBER.—No ordinance to close barber shops at 8 p. m. after May 15 has been passed, nor is any such ordinance pending.

P. S.—We don't know how you can "get him back" unless you can clearly explain how you happened to be with another young man.

C. D. B.—Answer to your question can be found by reading the policy contract. Whatever it says there as to misrepresentation of age is binding.

H. Mc.—The extent of the deformity determines the length of time taken to correct it; it can not be quickly done, and is not inexpensive, but is worth all it costs.

CONSTANT READER.—Our news columns print each day an item telling where Weston is and how far he made or expects to make during the day. He was at Syracuse, N. Y., Friday.

YATES.—There are different kinds of trust deeds and we cannot go into details. Consult experienced real estate man of your town or an attorney. The deed of trust against the property would not prevent carrying out your purpose.

G. D.—The statute of limitations on bribery up to five years ago was three years. Since then the statute of limitations on bribery has been five years. A person who accepts a bribe today may be prosecuted any time within the next five years.

HUMANITY.—Report this case to the Health Department. You, as a friend or neighbor, have a perfect right to report the mother's mental condition. The Health Department officials will take charge of her and direct you how to get custody of the child.

MR. SMITH JR.—Holder of deed of trust is required by law to release the incumbrance of record on payment to him of releasing fee of 25 cents. Other persons than the real holder often do the releasing, upon knowing positively that debt was satisfied, and all notes marked paid and properly indorsed.

LAW.—There was a contest between Parliament and Charles I. He dissolved several parliaments and governed 11 years without one. He persecuted and prosecuted the Puritans. When he attempted to arrest Pym, Hampden and three other members of the House of Commons the Parliament appealed to arms.

FLORENCE.—F. J. writes: I have received a letter from New York City concerning Miss Florence Lawrence. Her maiden name is Florence Salter and her stage name is Florence Lawrence. She is not married. Perhaps inquirers had better write to the lady. The only certain thing about her seems to be that Florence rhymes with Lawrence.

TIMON TYDE.—The Glasgow mansion, in Glasgow place, was built by William Glasgow Jr., the pioneer wine-maker of Missouri; "a sagacious man of affairs, and old-school gentleman, and a much esteemed citizen." He gave a great deal of time to experiments in mechanics and mathematics and was an amateur painter of merit. He married the daughter of William Carr Lane, first Mayor of St. Louis; died in 1892, aged 79, leaving seven children.

READER.—We have never heard the reason why a young woman is of age at 18 and a young man not so until 21. It may be because the young man, having to provide for the family if he marries, should have sufficient experience to make a living for it. He needs a great deal more sense and experience than is usual at 21; in Russia he is not of age until he is 26. It might be well to extend the feminine age limit. Some States have done so already. In fact there are women of 40 who are still exactly like children; some men, well on in years, are mere "kids."

SUFFRAGETTE.—Engrossed bill (legislation) is one which has been plainly written or printed, with all its amendments, preparatory to final action on its passage. Enrolled bill is one which has been finally passed by legislative body, requiring only signatures of presiding officers and executive before being enrolled on statute books. The enactment of a law follows this process: (1) first reading of bill; (2) second reading and reference to committee; (3) report from committee (4) action on committee's report and recommendation for engrossment; (5) motion to place on final passage; (6) motion to enroll.

F. L. W.—In October Mr. Rockefeller addressed a letter to a number of educators, physicians and others asking that they take part in a conference with the hope that it might lead to the adoption of plans for a co-operative movement of the medical profession, public health officials, boards of trade, churches, the press and other agencies for the cure and prevention of the hookworm disease. He authorized them to call on him in the next five years for $1,000,000 to promote the purpose. The plan for the hookworm war has not been announced. The hookworm scare has been ridiculed by some Southern statesmen.

H. M. E.—Duties of guardians depends upon whether they have charge of the person or of the estate, or of both. If only of the estate they are called curators. Guardians of the person have control over the child, see to furnishing necessary clothing, shelter and food, its education and welfare in general. Curators look after the management of its estate in general and supply necessary funds to guardians as the court by its order directs. Where guardians act in both capacities the duties are combined. Any person qualified can act as guardian of minor child and of a person of unsound mind at same time, providing both appointments are given to such person.

Children's Eyes.

Hints for Detecting Color Blindness.

BY DR. ELDRIDGE-GREEN.

MANY children find out that there is something wrong with their sight by not being able to find cherries or strawberries as quickly as their companions, or because they are not able to see holly berries on a tree.

Many color-blind persons are very expert in matching colors. In fact, I am informed that one large drapery establishment has on its staff a color-blind man whose special employment is to match colors, writes Dr. Eldridge-Green in the May Strand. I have examined many similar persons, who could match colors with very great accuracy.

This may appear very puzzling to the reader. It will seem extraordinary to him that a man who can match colors accurately will call a green light red. Persons of this kind have a very acute perception of shade, and sufficient color perception to prevent them from making mistakes in matching. They are, of course, very intelligent persons who are able to notice the very slight differences which they see between colors.

With one exception, I have not found any particular class of individuals in whom color-blindness is more frequent than in other classes. I have found more color-blind persons among musicians than in any other class or profession.

Color-blindness is usually congenital, but a particular variety may be caused by excessive smoking. The person afflicted with this variety may be able to pass the official tests with ease, because the central portion of the eye is the first to be affected. The reader can test for himself whether he be suffering from this particular form of color-blindness by purchasing a small packet of the sweets called hundreds and thousands. These are small sweets about the size of small shot of different colors. He will find that he is unable to pick out all the reds and all the greens when he looks directly at them, but will see the colors readily enough when he looks at them sideways.

Love and Matrimony

Advice on Affairs of the Heart, Written for the Post-Dispatch. . . . . .

By BETTY VINCENT.

GIRLS, if you have accepted presents of any kind from the young men of your acquaintance and then have quarreled with one of these young men and he asks you to return his gifts, I must remind you to do so promptly.

I will not criticise here and now the young man who makes such a request. I am merely advising you girls to comply with it and return the presents at once.

I do not like to receive letters like the following from young men, for although they may not display a very generous spirit in their writer, they also show a lack of delicacy in the girl to whom they refer. The letter I am speaking of reads like this:

"I was greatly attracted to a girl. We are not exactly engaged to be married, but we had told each other that we loved one another. It seems we were mistaken, for now we have tired of our affection. When we broke our friendship I asked the girl to return the presents I gave here. She has never done so, although I have written her about it time and time again."

Girls, please do not let me receive any more letters like this. If a young man asks you to return his presents, do so.

A YOUNG man who signs his letter "J. F." writes:

"I have been engaged to a young lady for two years, but every time I mention marriage she gets angry. She has a younger sister, and I fear if my fiancee does not marry me soon I will fall in love with this sister. My fiancee is going to visit her parents in the country, and she says she does not know when she will get back. What shall I do?"

I would have a plain talk with the young woman you are engaged to and find out if she really loves you. Tell her you cannot wait indefinitely to marry her.

A GIRL, who signs her letter "B. L." writes:

"I have a young man friend of whom I am very fond. Would it be proper for me to invite him to a theater party that a lot of girls I know are getting up?"

I think the young man would feel uncomfortable if he was the only man in the party. Besides, I think I would wait and let him ask you to the theater. It is really his place to do so.

Dr. Lepage, the eminent Russian surgeon, has sent in his bill for $20,000, his fee for the operation on King Leopold a few days before the King's death. The operation is said to have lasted ten minutes.

Greece has been producing too many currants to make the currant-raising industry profitable. Enough vines are to be destroyed to reduce the output by 26 per cent, and $2,316,000 is to be expended at once in reimbursing the owners for the uprooting of their vines.

An interesting discovery has been made in boring the tunnel of Rion, on the Puy-Langogne line. M. Efter, one of the firm of contractors carrying out the work, has discovered imbedded in the clay at a distance of thirty metres the fossil of an animal believed to belong to the stag family, which is believed to have lived in the pliocene period.

British military commanders are beginning to prohibit excessive cigarette smoking by young soldiers.

Reflections of A Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND.

LIFE is just one husband after another—as they say in Nevada.

So often it's those very same things about a woman that "intoxicate" a man before marriage which "drive him to drink" afterward.

Every marriage, like every rarebit, is just a blind experiment, and nobody on earth can tell the particular reason why it turns out smooth or crumbles to pieces.

It's hard to tell whether it is more harrowing to have your friends hate you for catching a husband or to have them despise you for failing to catch one.

Only a rich girl can afford to go to college; it takes an awful lot of money to make a man overlook a serious defect, like intelligence, in a woman.

The average man simply can't understand what the Suffragettes want, in view of the fact that women already have their inalienable rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of a husband."

Higgledy, piggledy, my black hen
Wouldn't lay eggs for gentlemen!
But you really can't blame the poor thing for that,
Because she lives on a Chantecler hat!

INOPPORTUNE.

Mrs. Tightwad: Get a doctor quick!

Mr. Tightwad: What's the matter now?

Mrs. Tightwad: The baby's just swallered a pint o' kerosene.

Mr. Tightwad: Gosh ding it! an' oil's just went up a cent!—Cleveland Leader.

FOIBLES OF THE RICH.

"My oldest daughter is frivolous. Goes in for soup kitchens, orphan asylums and the like. But my youngest daughter is of a more serious turn of mind."

"So?"

"Yes; that girl is evidently going to play a first-class game of bridge."—Louisville Courier Journal.

MARKS AN EPOCH.

"One of the coast towns wishes to hold an exposition. Wants no financial aid from Congress, either."

"What is the exposition to commemorate?"

"I don't know."

"No matter. If they want no aid from Congress, they are entitled to an exposition to signalize that fact alone."—Pittsburg Post.

Anty Drudge—"Stop right there, my dear! If you will begin Monday morning by reading the directions on the back of a Fels-Naptha soap wrapper and follow them faithfully, you'll have more time for other kinds of reading that day and feel more like it, too."

Fels-Naptha soap is the best and easiest way of washing. If Fels-Naptha didn't do what we say it will, no woman would buy a second cake. Yet more than a million women use Fels-Naptha every washday. And the number is increasing as fast as its value becomes known.

If you haven't used Fels-Naptha, try it, according to directions, and on the result we'll stake our chance of making you a regular user. For your white things, soap, roll and soak for thirty minutes in cold or lukewarm water—no boiling or hot water. Then rub lightly, rinse and hang out to dry. That's all.

Full directions for all uses of Fels-Naptha on the red and green wrapper.

If Fels-Naptha is kept out of the water when doing the kitchen work, it is less expensive to use than the ordinary kinds of soap.

INSIDE PLAY IN BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL

JOHN J. EVERS AND HUGH FULLERTON

FEW persons outside those engaged in the game understand what baseball law is, or how it is administered, or how it affects teams and players. Before 1903, when the National Agreement was written and ratified by most of the organized clubs in America, baseball had been chaotic because of the war between the National and American leagues, which after one year of desperate conflict settled down into steady guerilla warfare.

The financial standing of almost every club was shaken, and with salaries and expenses at the highest mark in history, receipts were heavily cut. The owners, weary of the ruinous strife and compelled to cease their own efforts to ruin each other, for safety's sake met at Cincinnati in September, 1903, and reached the "National Agreement" which is the basis of all baseball law. The National and American leagues and the National Association of Minor Leagues ratified the agreement as the supreme law of the game, arranged for the establishment of a supreme court of baseball to sit en banc (or en bunc) on disputes of all kinds, agreeing to accept decisions as final.

This court was called the National Commission, and it constitutes perhaps the most extraordinary judicial and legislative body in the history of America. It was provided that the commission should be composed of the presidents of the National and American leagues, and a third man, who was to be chairman and chosen by the two presidents. August Herrmann, owner of the Cincinnati club and a ring politician of prominence, was chosen as chairman.

Students of political economy possibly would imagine that the court was a farce, the principle behind its formation being laughably in defiance of the accepted theories of government. Instead of choosing judges because of their impartiality, they were chosen because of their interest in, and knowledge of cases to be decided. The consent of the governed was not asked at first, though later the minor leagues were asked to enter into the agreement; but the consent of the players, over whom the commission was given full and extraordinary powers, never was requested. The interests of 40 leagues, perhaps 350 clubs and 8000 players, were thrust into the hands of three men, one an owner, the others representing owners.

Commission Is Mighty Powerful.

FURTHER, this court was empowered not only to hear cases and pass judgment, but to enforce punishments, collect fines and execute their own decrees. Going further, the commission, a judicial body, was made executive and legislative, empowered to pass laws governing themselves, the club owners (their employers), and players, even to pass laws to correct abuses, and to make these laws retroactive and punish for offenses committed prior to their enactment. In the first year of the existence of the court, it went back and punished for offenses which were committed, before the National Agreement was signed and the court created.

This procedure was explained, or excused, as such proceedings now are excused, on the plea that the action was necessary for "the good of the game." The National Commission, while laughable from a standpoint of civil law, has proved effective, has safeguarded the game in many ways, and has corrected many evils. The National Agreement, which is the constitution of baseball, is one of the most remarkable of existing codes. The first remarkable phase of the constitution is found in Rule 23, which provides: "These rules may be changed at any time by a majority vote of the Commission."

That one rule gave the National Commission the most absolute power in all cases, without referendum, even to the club owners, made two men supreme to enact laws to punish all offenses, and to create offenses for which punishment might be inflicted. The chief objection of players to the high court of the game is that they believe too much power has been given to two men, both naturally influenced in favor of the employers.

Players Want Long Contracts.

THE reservation clause is the vital principle of organized baseball. The owners claim baseball could not exist without it, while the thinking players insist that long term contracts, safeguarding the interests of both parties, would accomplish just as much.

The general public does not understand the system on which the baseball business is built. The agreement between the club owners of all leagues provided for classification of the leagues, each of which was to remain separate and independent, making its own rules except in cases where power was claimed for the central government. The National and American Leagues were rated as the major leagues, the Eastern and American Association as secondary major leagues, and the others were divided into classes A, B, C and D, with provisions for even lower ratings if necessary. Each league is allotted a fixed value per head on its players, and an annual period is fixed during which any league of a higher class is privileged to draft players, to a certain number, from clubs of a lower class league by paying the fixed sum.

The National and American Leagues may draw upon any league for any player, and take him upon payment of the sum fixed as the per capita value of players of that class. If the clubs fail to draft the player during the stated drafting period, he must be acquired by purchase. In theory, this classification was made to protect the smaller leagues from being disrupted by drafts upon them by the major leagues. During its workings it has done much injustice to some clubs of the lower class, but on the whole, the smaller leagues have profited greatly at the expense of the richer clubs because of the over-eagerness of the large club owners to obtain players. The vast majority of players drafted or purchased from the smaller clubs are sent back after brief trials in the major leagues, usually for smaller sums than those paid, so the minor leagues have little cause for complaint against the direct workings of the drafting laws. The evils are found, not in the rules, but in the evasion and the abuse of them generally indulged in.

EVERS BEST OF ALL ON INSIDE BASEBALL

JOHNNY EVERS of the Cubs, who collaborated with Mr. Fullerton in producing this baseball serial, enjoys the distinction of having the most active baseball intelligence in the game today. He is probably as well posted on "inside play" as any man in the game, and applies it to situations in his daily routine with wonderful facility.

It was he who in a memorable game saved the day for Chicago by tagging second and putting out Merkle of the Giants, when the winning run had virtually been scored by New York. It was a technicality that nobody thought of and the players were running off the field to the club house when Evers turned it. It won the game and the pennant for the Cubs.

Mr. Fullerton has been writing baseball for newspapers and magazines for twenty years and is one of the best posted men in the business.

O'CONNOR SAYS HE HAS A STAR IN A. GRIGGS

Browns' Manager Has Boost for His Slugging Second Sacker.

If Emery Olson, the former Louisville infielder, who was expected to become the Browns' second baseman this summer, but who is a holdout, believes he is worrying Manager Jack O'Connor because of his absence, he's sadly mistaken. Even should Olson show up right now, he would have to go some to land a job at second, because of the excellent work of Arthur Griggs, the young man who tinkers teeth out of a baseball season.

A young ball player seldom drew more praise than was handed Griggs by Manager Jack O'Connor Friday. O'Connor believes he has the makings of a star in the former Texas Leaguer and predicts a brilliant future for him.

"Griggs is a great ball player," stated O'Connor to the Post-Dispatch on the ride downtown from Sportsman's Park, after he had called off Friday's game because of the rain. "They tell me that he didn't exactly make a hit with the fans last season because he didn't appear to be hustling.

"Well, he's a hustler and a good one, too. In fact I don't believe I have a player on the team who is more out to win or make a good showing than Griggs.

"I didn't see him play last season, but the other fellows on the team tell me that the Griggs of 1909 and this year's Griggs are two different players. He plays the second base position like Lajoie. No one ever saw Big Larry hustle or appear to hustle or worry over anything shot his way. That's just the way Griggs is.

They're All Cool Today, Jack.

He's the coolest proposition I ever ran against in baseball. And how he can hit! Why, he stands up there and takes just as healthy a poke at the ball when the call is two strikes on him as when the pitcher hasn't anything.

"Just watch this fellow's work around second base. He's a grand young ball player. I am tickled with the way he has been playing for me and he should improve in every game. His work suits me and you know I am out to give the best results possible."

O'Connor's squad is now down to 24 players. Frank Truesdale, another St. Louis boy, is the lone utility infielder. There are three catchers, Stephens, Killefer and Allen. The outfielders are Stone, Hoffman, Demmitt, Schweitzer, Fisher and Criss. Ten pitchers, Lake, Powell, Howell, Pelty, Waddell, Graham, Bailey, Stremmell, Gilligan and Kinsellt, form the slab corps.

O'Connor stated Friday that he would continue with his present squad of ten twirlers. "You have to have that many to guard against accidents," stated Jack. "Then I was greatly pleased in the morning workout at the form shown by Kinsella and Gilligan. I received both boys and they showed me more stuff than they have since we reported March 1. If they keep up their present gait, I look for both to cut a little dash."

Reception Tendered to O'Connor Reminds Him of an Irish "Wake"

O'Connor was greatly amused at the big time that awaited him in North St. Louis Thursday evening following the victory in the inaugural over the White Sox. Jack is a member of the Angelica Physical Culture Club at Ninth and Branch streets. Powell, Hostetter, Jimmy Burke, "Lefty" Leifield Frank Huelsman and a bunch of O'Connor's North Side friends are members. He decided to send the huge harp and the other flowers given him Thursday to the clubrooms for his friends to inspect.

"It was a scream," said Jack in telling about it. "If there was one there was a thousand men, women and kids that called at the clubrooms. A lot of the old biddies, with youngsters in their arms, took a look at the harp and then began bawling. For awhile I thought I was at an Irish wake. Some old Irish woman would suddenly let out a yell and say, 'Now isn't that nice, Jawnnie is such a nice bye. Isn't it grand?' I stood it for a while and then went home and locked myself up in the house."

It rained just before game time Friday and Manager O'Connor decided to call off the second game between the Browns and White Sox. They will play one game Saturday, weather permitting.

Big Jack Powell, O'Connor's brother-in-law, is soon to get a trial. He will probably be sent to the mound the first real warm day.

Pat Dougherty is along with the White Sox, but isn't playing because of a "Charley horse." Barrows, who is doing duty in left, will be benched as soon as Patrick's ailment leaves him.

Lee Tannehill, the Sox third baseman for several seasons, is also a member of the Chicago party. However, in the opinion of the visiting scribes and also Manager Duffy, Purtell has been playing such good ball that there is no chance for Tannehill to break in with the former going at his present good clip.

Pitcher Frank Smith, the Chicago "iron-man," was ailing as a result of the 12-inning game with the Naps, but has recovered, and may get in one of the games against the Browns.

That section of the bleacher fence where the bulletin board stood last season has been painted green. It is expected that it will improve the hitting of the players. The scoreboard is now erected on the east end of the pavilion roof.

Groundkeeper Fabian, a former ball player, has put the infield in excellent shape, according to the players.

President Hedges of the Browns says he is going to ask President Johnson of the American League to instruct his umpires not to agree to call a game at any stipulated hour. Spake Hedges: "If they agree to call a game at the end of a certain number of innings, it's all right, but ending a game in the middle of an inning will often cause a dispute like the Cardinals and Cubs had the other day. We once got the wrong end of a deal in a similar case with Detroit."

The White Sox infield failed to impress the wise ones at Thursday's game. However, O'Connor is a booster for Rollie Zeider, the Sox's second sacker. "He's always on his toes and covers a lot of ground around the bag," says the "Rowdy."

Vincent Campbell Does Good Work for Clarke

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 23.

MANAGER BRESNAHAN and other players on the Cardinal team could not say enough about the work of Campbell, the St. Louis boy, who is playing right field in place of Wilson.

"That kid is a second Cobb," is the way a prominent member of the team expressed it. "Why, I never saw a man who could go down to first faster. Then, when he is on, he knows what to do when a hit is made; it is no wonder he led his league last season as a base stealer."

"I pity a pitcher who can not field bunts when that fellow is at the bat," was the way another Cardinal player talked. "Why, he is a better bunter right now than Beaumont was when he broke into the game, and 'Beau' was some place hitter."

Campbell is also a thrower as he demonstrated yesterday, when he captured Barbeau's long fly and by a pretty peg caught Evans at the plate. Can it be that Manager Clarke has found a man to take his place? It is a known fact that the Pirate leader has been trying for some time to get an understudy and it looks very much as though the St. Louis boy will be the player who some day will be seen in left field when Clarke decides to quit playing.

It is more than likely that Pittsburg will play 81 games at home this summer instead of 77, and that St. Louis will play 73 at home. President Stanley Robison, who is going to start his new grand stand at the end of the season, has about decided to transfer the games scheduled at St. Louis with the Pirates Oct. 2, 3, 4 and 5 to Pittsburg. As this is the only series that the Cardinals are scheduled to play at home during that month, he has about settled on the change.

Both the Pirates and Cardinals will leave right after the game Saturday afternoon, the Pirates going to Chicago, where they play Sunday, and St. Louis to Cincinnati.

The Cardinals look like an entirely different team from the one that came here last spring and one that shapes up about 50 per cent stronger. Both Willis and Corridon will help win many games for Roger before fall, while Lush and Backman should help round out a winning quartet of twirlers if worked in turn.

"I don't care a cuss if Sallee does not report again," was Bresnahan's way of saying his little say when asked what would become of the tall left-hander. It is known that the Cardinal leader has tried to make a trade for one of Clarke's youngsters, but Fred stated that he would not have Sallee for a gift as he was a bad actor and he did not intend worrying about pitchers he could not trust.

Miller Huggins puts more life in the teams than any man who has played in the infield on that team for years. When Mowrey gets into harness he will help out the "Rabbit" for Mike is some "josher" and with Hulswitt, who can talk, should make up for what Big Ed Koney does not say.

Big Bill Powell, who worked yesterday, has been a member of the world's champions since the spring of 1909 and yesterday was the first time he has pitched a full game. This chap is a resident of East Liverpool, O., a small city, about 25 miles down the Ohio. He has everything a good pitcher needs except control, and when with the Eastern League he was strong with control, but he claims that it has been so long since he pitched regularly that he has not been introduced to the home plate.

It will likely be Camnitz and Lush today unless Roger sends Corridon back to try for a victory.

Corridon proved some fielder yesterday, for he had three assists in the 1 1-3 innings he pitched and every one looked like a base hit when it left the bat, but "Fiddler" knocked them all down and threw his man out.

COLD WEATHER PREVENTS INTERSCHOLASTIC GAMES

The Yeatman High School and McKinley High baseball teams agreed that it was too cold to play their inaugural game this morning and postponed it until Wednesday afternoon. The game will be staged at South End Park.

The Central High and Western Military Academy teams which were scheduled to play their initial league game this afternoon at Kulage's Park, also decided that it was not the kind of weather in which to play baseball and will stage the game some day next week.

SMITH'S NINE BEATS MANUAL IN SNOW, 8—3

The Smith Academy baseball team, winners of the Interscholastic championship last season, displayed championship form in the only Interscholastic game played Saturday against the Manual Training School, at Kulage's Park, winning by the score of 8 to 3. Wingo and Delano were in the points for Smith, while Hoerr and Lewis worked for Manual.

YEATMAN-M'KINLEY GAME OFF BECAUSE OF THE COLD

The game between the Yeatman and McKinley High School teams, scheduled to be played at South End Park Saturday morning, was postponed because of the chilly weather and wet grounds.

A good shortstop would like to join some uniformed team playing in the 16 and 17-year-old class, Young Americans preferred. Address Arthur Rundle, 112 Ranken avenue.

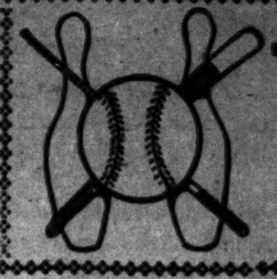
Kennedy a Faculty Member.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 23.—Bert Kennedy, football coach for the University of Kansas, will have a place on the faculty as director of outdoor athletics, according to an announcement made today by Dr. O. G. McClung, faculty member of the Athletic Association. This is in accordance with the recent ruling of the schools in the Missouri Valley conference, which forbids the employment of coaches who are not regular members of the teaching staff.



WRAY'S COLUMN.

POOR Owgoost Hermann! It's surely a tough job playing the pivotal bag for the National Commission. First, the American League hands him the case of Hal Chase to vote on. Then he must even up this reinstatement by siding in favor of Johnny Kling's return to the game. Now they are saddling on his devoted shoulders the fixing of the Mike Donlin episode.

For Garry is some fixer. Any baseball troubles that arise Garry goes right in, just as if the water were fine and placid, instead of cold and tempestuous.

No Offense, No Punishment.

GARRY, first out, has slipped one over in the Mike Donlin case. In advance of an application for reinstatement by Donlin, Garry is reported as having said that Donlin could walk right back into the game again with never a blemish on his baseball character. Says he:

"Donlin committed no offense. He merely left baseball to take up another profession. His request for reinstatement will be granted."

But, Garry, dear, if he committed no offense, why does he need a reinstatement at all?

And, Owgoost, how about that May 1 rule for reporting? It may have been another profession which kept Michael out of baseball, but most of us have labored under the impression that it was McGraw's refusal to pay his star the $8000 per annum which Mike demanded. His failure to report was, therefore, a violation of this same pet May 1 rule.

My! What a Stretch!

AND there's the rub that makes Herrmann's job a tough one. Between a desire to please and a desire to be just there's an awful chasm to span. And Owgoost's legs are notoriously short.

Of course, every fan wants Donlin back in the game. Everybody, too, from a baseball standpoint, is pleased when stars like Kling and Chase are permitted to get back into the arena, to help make our great American holidays.

But one can't help wondering where this thing of forgetting rules to please owners and players is going to put the discipline of the game.

Schedule Hurts Cardinals.

ROGER BRESNAHAN is meeting with desperate fortune in his start this year. Notwithstanding the prevailing belief—including his own—that the club is a good one, Roger has been unable to get his men going. His club is three weeks back of nearly every team in the West, and this is especially true of the pitching and batting departments. Not a pitcher on Roger's staff is up to standard game.

On the other hand, an unkind schedule maker so devised matters that the Cardinals must meet the very strongest clubs of the League, and the best-conditioned, too, right at the outset. For the first month of play the poor St. Louis lads are batted about in shuttlecock fashion from the Pirates to the Cubs and from the Cubs to the Cincinnati Reds, and then around again.

This is apt to have a still more unfortunate outcome than that of mere defeat—the breaking down of the spirit of the team.

And on top of it all the weather man higher up is handing the team conditions that absolutely prevent the team's rounding to form.

It's hard luck three times over.

St. Louis Men Make Good.

FRED CLARKE'S judgment in matters of baseball is perhaps as well shown in the case of Bobby Byrne as in any other instance. Even in the year when Byrne was going badly for the Cardinals, Clarke sought to get this young man for third. Since he has finally obtained him, many wonders have been worked at third base. Byrne was strong in emergency during the wind-up last season, and this year is playing as he never did before. At the time of the trade of Barbeau and Starke for Byrne, it appeared that the Cardinals might have had a shade the best of it.

The advent of Vincent Campbell to the game gives the Pirates three regular members, who hail from St. Louis—Byrne, Leifield and Campbell. As Wilson is supposed to be seriously injured, it is likely that "V." Campbell will get his first real try-out in big league company. His debut, Friday, made good the many nice things previously said of his playing.

"RAZORBACKS" HERE TO PLAY CAYOU'S MEN FINAL GAME

The Arkansas University baseball team is to play the Washington University nine in the Stadium Saturday afternoon, weather permitting. Last Friday the Washington team won from Arkansas, at Fayetteville. The following day the Arkansas men took the Washington team into camp after the hardest kind of a battle. The game Saturday afternoon will therefore be the deciding contest between the two universities. Play is scheduled to start at 3:15 o'clock.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN CHESS STARS OPEN MATCH

PRINCETON, N. J., April 23.—American and British university chess players took their places at their board this morning for the tenth annual struggle for international supremacy at the royal game.

Beginning at 8 o'clock in the morning, New York time, the players were prepared to continue their rivalry by cable until 7 o'clock in the evening, the hour set for closing.

The match is the tenth of the series for the possession of the valuable trophy donated by Prof. Isaac L. Rice.

The Americans have won the last two matches, making three wins for each side and three ties.

OKLAHOMA CITY MAY GET WESTERN LEAGUE BERTH

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 23.—President N. L. O'Neill of the Western League declared that he was negotiating with another city for the Des Moines franchise. Its transfer, he said yesterday, would be contingent upon better support of the team. The city to which he refers is undoubtedly Oklahoma City, as it is known that city is making an effort to get into the league.

BOXER DIES FOLLOWING A SIX-ROUND BATTLE

S.S.S. A REAL CURE FOR BLOOD DISEASE

S. S. S. is a real cure for Contagious Blood Poison because it is a real blood purifier. We all realize that this disease is a specific blood infection of the most powerful nature, the virus of which so thoroughly poisons the corpuscles of the circulation that its symptoms are manifested over almost the entire body. First comes a tiny sore or pimple, then the mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the groins swell, the hair begins to fall out, skin diseases break out on the body, sores and ulcers appear, and even the bones ache with rheumatic pains. It is reasonable to believe that in a blood poison so powerful as this that only a blood purifier can have any permanent good effect. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers; it goes into the circulation and by thoroughly cleansing the blood of every particle of the insidious virus makes a permanent and lasting cure of Contagious Blood Poison. It does not hide or cover up the disease in the system, but it entirely removes the last trace of its destructive germs. If you are suffering with this disease S. S. S. will cure you because it will cleanse your blood and enrich its health-promoting corpuscles. S. S. S. is made entirely of healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks, and is a medicine so absolutely safe and certain in its results that every one may cure themselves at home, and be assured the cure will be permanent and lasting. The Difference in the Play of the National and American Leagues

Which plays the better ball? Sam Crane tells in Pearson's Magazine, now on sale. He describes and analyzes the play of the two leagues, plainly shows the difference, and incidentally explains why the National League regularly wins the World's Championship. Here, for the first time, is a frank comparison of the two leagues, made by a man who has followed the game for thirty years. If you think one league is better than the other, read this story. Crane hasn't attempted to please both sides; he speaks sincerely. His story should settle all arguments.

The needlessness of the increased cost of living is explained in the same issue; a few men fix the prices for their own profit; here's the whole story. The influences which made Mr. Taft change his mind about the tariff are set forth by Alfred Henry Lewis, also he names the four men who really control the government. The diseases which infect seventy-five per cent. of young men and affect principally innocent women and babies are described in plain words; it is the first explanation of the greatest social evil. An old-time newspaper man writes of newspaper methods yesterday and to-day; another story tells how two women with rifles defy the United States Supreme Court. For entertainment there are seven splendid short fiction stories, including a corker—the second story of [illegible], by [illegible].

ARCHBISHOP TO DEDICATE NEW CHURCH SUNDAY

The Rev. Father Nugent Is Pastor of Newly Built St. Catherine's.

PARISH IS NEW ONE

Was Created Last Fall—News of Other Congregations.

The new St. Catherine's Catholic Church at Page and Leroy avenues will be dedicated Sunday at 9:30 a. m. by Archbishop John J. Glennon, assisted by priests of neighboring parishes. The structure will be blessed in honor of St. Catherine of Siena. The dedication exercises will be followed by high mass, celebrated by Rev. Father Alfred of Normandy.

The dedication sermon will be preached by Father Patrick Dooley of St. Bridget's Parish. Father P. J. O'Rourke of St. Mark's will be master of ceremonies.

Father John Nugent has been in charge of the parish since its formation last fall, and will be pastor of the new church. He was ordained a priest in 1896, and was formerly assistant priest of St. Mark's Parish. After he took charge of St. Catherine's Parish he conducted services in a tent for nine weeks. When the foundation of the new church edifice was completed, the services were held in the basement. The new parish now has about 100 families.

A series of Sunday morning sermons on the Holy Land is being preached by Rev. J. H. String, at the Maple Avenue Reformed Church.

A springtime praise service will be held Sunday night at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union and Kensington avenues. Special music has been arranged by the vested choir. The pastor, Rev. Charles S. Mills, will preach.

Rabbi Leon Harrison will preach on "Unleavened Bread" Sunday at Temple Israel.

The annual retreats for persons of the world will take place at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Meramec street and Nebraska avenue, this year, at the following times: The retreat for the Christian Mothers' Association, and for married women, will open June 27 and close June 30. The retreat for young women employed during the year will open July 1, and will close with general communion July 4.

The Rev. J. J. Tanurath will deliver a lecture on Gothic Architecture Thursday to the art section of the Monday Club.

The Bible Class of the Third Baptist Church, composed of 90 young women, gave a dinner in the dining room of the church Tuesday evening.

A mass meeting of the Epworth League Union will be held Tuesday night at St. Paul's Southern Methodist Church, 1927 St. Louis avenue. The Rev. C. H. Briggs of Springfield, Mo., will deliver a lecture on "David Livingtone as a Missionary Statesman."

The Catholic Workingman's Welfare Association celebrated its first anniversary Wednesday night at Goller hall, Eighth street and Allen avenue. John Kaiser, president of the organization, said during the course of a speech that he expected the society to become national in scope.

A two-week's mission will open Sunday at Holy Angels' Catholic Church. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Father Thomas O'Malley and the Rev. Father David Johnson. The first week the mission will be for women and the second week for men.

The Young Men's Club of the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, gave a musical entertainment at the church during the last week.

A statue of St. Joseph will be unveiled Sunday afternoon in the chapel of the Immaculate Conception Institute for Deaf Mute Girls, Franklin and Garrison avenues, by the Rev. Father John L. Siedl of St. Bridget's Church, assisted by the Rev. Father Joseph L. Davis. The statue is a gift from the Rev. Father Edward N. Davis.

The Rev. Edward A. Casey, pastor of St. James' Church, has returned from Colorado and California, where he spent several months for the benefit of his health.

IMPORTING CREDITORS EVEN SEIZE ITALIAN POET'S DOGS

TURIN, April 22.—Gabriel d'Annunzio is in trouble with the Bank of Rome, from which he obtained some time ago a credit of $20,000. The bank has now distrained the furniture in the Villa Capponcina, the poet's splendid residence near Florence, which is filled with magnificent art collections.

Another creditor for $2500 has distrained the works of art and D'Annunzio's favorite dogs.

Notices have been posted on them, notifying that the goods seized will be sold at auction April 28.

Announcement!

ONE of the most important trade transactions in Women's Ready-to-Wear Apparel ever made by a St. Louis concern has just been consummated by the Wm. Barr Co. A prominent American firm devoted to the importation, designing and manufacture of women's exclusively fine wearing apparel, being unable to meet a note at the bank, sold us their entire stock-on-hand of Silk Dresses, Suits and Skirts, at about 33⅓ Cents on the Dollar!

The garments arrived this morning. The sale will start Monday. See Barr's advertisements in Sunday's papers, and, as you read, bear in mind this most important fact:

Every Suit, Every Silk Dress, Every Skirt Is Bran-Span New, Made in the Very Latest of Late Styles.

They are undoubtedly and undeniably, the greatest values ever yet placed before the women of St. Louis.

MOTHER'S FRIEND
A LINIMENT FOR EXTERNAL USE.
Not only is Mother's Friend a safe and simple remedy, but the comfort and healthful condition its use produces makes it of inestimable value to every expectant mother. Mother's Friend relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the different ligaments, overcomes nausea by counteraction, prevents backache and numbness of limbs, soothes the inflammation of the breast glands and in every way aids in preserving the health and comfort of prospective mothers. Mother's Friend is a liniment for external massage, which by lubricating and expanding the different muscles and membranes, thoroughly prepares the system for baby's coming without danger to the mother. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.

SIX SALVAGE MEN RESIGN BECAUSE CASEY IS UPHELD

Chief Glanville Declares He Could Not Conscientiously Remain in Service.

Chief John O. Glanville and five members of the Underwriters' Salvage Corps tendered their resignations to the Executive Committee Friday because the latter failed to uphold charges of alleged insubordination and brutality to members of the corps, which were filed against Capt. James Casey, commander of Corps No. 1.

Capt. Casey was suspended April 18, following the resignations of two of his men and the transfer of two others, who refused to work under him. Casey's trial began Tuesday and was finished Friday. When it was announced by the committee that the charges were insufficient, Chief Glanville quit. His action was followed by the resignations of John Howard, No. 1; John Bowes, No. 2; Bruce Mahon, No. 3; Brooks Waters, watchman, and Clay Bower. All resigned because of their affection for their Chief.

Chief Glanville, in explaining the causes leading up to his resignation, said it would be impossible for him, through the recent action of the Executive Committee, to maintain discipline in the Salvage Corps. "I could not conscientiously remain in the department," he said Saturday, "while an officer of the Executive Board of Underwriters is endeavoring to ruin the efficiency of the Salvage Corps."

Glanville declares that the good work of the St. Louis Fire Department and the Salvage Corps has resulted in light insurance and that in his anxiety to create a better demand for insurance, an official of the Board of Underwriters has resorted to tactics calculated to impair the Salvage Corps' efficiency.

Chief Glanville says the official in question caused a change in the purchase of horse feed because the person who sold to the corps did not purchase his insurance from him. He also says the official caused inferior oil to be purchased for the department's automobiles and as a result his machine stopped on one occasion responding to an alarm of fire.

MRS. DENIS DEVOY IS CALLED SUDDENLY BY DEATH AT HOME

Was Widow of St. Louis Attorney—Funeral Will Be Monday.

Mrs. Denis Devoy, 58 years old, wife of the late Denis Devoy, an attorney, and sister of J. K. Emmett, the actor, died at her home, 1221 St. Ange avenue, early Saturday. Mrs. Devoy's death came unexpectedly, although not without warning.

At 1 o'clock Saturday her son, Eugene, was attracted to her room by her moans. He realized his mother's condition was serious and a doctor was sent for. Mrs. Devoy expired before the physician's arrival.

Mrs. Devoy's funeral will be held Monday from Holy Angels' Church. She leaves six sons, Emmett, Eugene, Clarence, Arthur, Norman and Raymond. Two of the boys, Emmett and Arthur, are actors. Emmett is in vaudeville and Arthur has a part in "The Clansman," now playing in Pittsburg. They have been notified of their mother's death.

BOY LOSES BOTH LEGS AFTER STREET CAR RUNS OVER HIM

Michael Scott, 4, Expected to Recover From Double Amputation.

Physicians at the City Hospital Saturday amputated both legs of Michael Scott, 4 years old, who was struck and run over by a Hodiamont car at Twentieth and Wash streets. The boy's condition is serious, but it is thought he will recover.

His left leg was amputated above the ankle, and the right below the knee. The little fellow asks constantly about his father, Charles Scott of 2931 Franklin avenue, who fainted when learning the extent of his son's injuries. Michael was crossing the street accompanied by his brother, Frank, 12 years old, when he was struck by the car Friday evening. He was hurried to the hospital in an automobile.

VON WEDELSTAEDT HOPES TO LEAVE THE CITY HOSPITAL

Patient in the Observation Ward Is Visited by His Wife and Mother.

R. Park Von Wedelstaedt has discarded his hospital garb, and now wears a suit of blue serge and tan shoes. He expects to leave the City Hospital and go to Chicago as soon as his brother, Dr. B. Von Wedelstaede completes the arrangements for his removal.

Von Wedelstaedt's wife and his mother visited him in the observation ward Friday night. His wife gave him a box of candy, and his mother brought a bouquet of carnations. His wife told him it was her desire that he stay in St. Louis, but he answered that he thought it better to go away.

Visible Supply of Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton shows a total of 3,710,534, against 3,882,316 last week. Of this, the total American cotton is 2,516,534, against 2,678,316 last week.

Post-Dispatch's Complete Daily Record of Markets and Finance

N. Y. MARKET DULL AFFAIR; TRADING LIGHT

Actual Bank Statement Unfavorable; Loan Reduction Is Checked.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"No time need be wasted in reviewing the stock market of today. It was so perfunctory that it might have been omitted without anyone knowing the difference. There were half a dozen usually active stocks of which only one sale apiece was made in the opening hour of business, and even the steel shares, for intervals of a full quarter hour, would not vary more than ⅛ in price.

Speaking generally, the market's tendency, so far as any tendency can be said to have existed, was toward firmness, with fractional improvement, but with some heaviness at the last. Foreign markets appeared to be as dull as ours, London, however, continuing to report underlying strength in rubber and oil shares. Our market for sterling exchange moved up 1/20c, which is rather unusual for a Saturday, and which apparently foreshadows more gold export engagements next week.

As has now become habitual, the bank statement on the daily average plan of compilation, and that based on actual week-end figures differed widely. On this occasion, the actual statement was the more unfavorable. The average figures showed $2,085,000 gain in cash and $9,163,000 loan reduction; the actual reported $737,000 loss in cash $7,167,000 loan expansion.

Taking, as one is bound to do, the actual returns alone two salient facts appear—one, that yesterday's unofficial estimates of nearly $3,000,000 net gains in cash despite the week's gold movement, were excessive; the other that the process of ostensible loan reproduction has been checked, for the first time since the end of March.

The resultant $2,500,000 decrease in the actual surplus reserve still leaves that item at a figure not much below its usual showing at this time of year. The trust companies, like the banks, expanded loans and excess of loans over deposits, in both actual and average statements of the associated banks was slightly reduced.

Saturday's short session was one of the dullest of the year, the total sales amounting to less than one hundred and fifty thousand shares.

There was a downward tendency in the market, but price changes were generally of an unimportant character.

Consolidated Gas was the only one of the industrials to score a gain, its advance being ½ point.

B. & O., C. & O., Erie, M. K. & T., N. Y. Central, Reading, Rock Island and Union Pacific receded slightly, while Atchison, C. & O. and Southern Pacific made small gains. Many of the leading issues were inactive.

Such stocks as Brooklyn Rapid Transit, St. Paul, Canadian Pacific, Great Northern, L. & N., Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Wabash, Colorado Fuel and Lead and Steel preferred were inactive.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 23.—Opening changes in prices of stocks were limited mostly to eighths and quarters and the transactions were very small. There was a rise of a point in Pittsburg Coal and a decline of ⅜ in Republic Steel.

There was no stock offered at ruling prices and brokers had to bid higher to fill orders, causing a rise of about ¼ in Reading, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting. The higher prices brought out more stock and there was a slight recession. Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg preferred fell 8, Iowa Central preferred 1⅝, and Pacific Coast 1.

The market closed easy. When the market closed speculation was repressed by trade uncertainty, anxiety over the position in the cotton market and a desire to await Tuesday's dividend action on United States Steel. Price movements in the most prominent stocks were barely perceptible. The small gains of the first hour were partly or wholly lost in the second. Delaware & Hudson rose 3 and American Locomotive and Virginia Iron 1. Pittsburg Coal preferred and American Steel Foundries lost 1¼ and Rock Island preferred and Western Union 1.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The publication of the shareholders of record of the United States Steel Corporation, as of March 13 last, has given rise to considerable comment over the amount of stock held by brokerage houses in Wall street. While the amount of stock held is large, still well informed brokers declare that the total is not abnormal. As transactions in United States Steel on the New York Stock Exchange have been running at the rate of 15 to 25 per cent of the entire transactions in all classes of securities, it is argued that the amount of stock held in Wall street should naturally be large.

The Iron Age says: "More attention has been given in the past week to indications here and there of lessened consumption of iron and steel. Foundries in some lines are not as busy as in March, and in the metal working trades the manufacturers' employment bureaus are placing fewer men. There is considerable variation in the reports from these consuming industries, however, operations with many of them being fully up to the scale of the past six months. With most of the large steel companies the volume of new business falls somewhat short of the average of last month."

GRANITE MINE IS FEATURE ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Marked Activity at Advanced Prices in This Famous Old Security.

Echoes of the days when Granite Mountain was a word to conjure with in financial circles in St. Louis, reverberated at the single session of the local Stock Exchange Saturday. Granite Bimetallic was the center of attraction and practically monopolized the trading. Opening at 48⅝c it sold up to 62½c, at which point it closed. Friday it sold at 45c, and its highest figures last year were 33⅝c.

There was a general desire to get in on the "good thing" and nearly four thousand shares changed hands during the brief session.

Well-defined reports of a new strike on the old mine in Montana is responsible for the advance, and unusual activity in the stock.

In consequence of the boom in Granite, the general list was neglected, but quotations were about unchanged.

Time money was without change supply being ample to meet the light demand. Rates were 3¾@4 per cent for sixty days, 4@4¼ for ninety days, four, five and six months. Although there was no change in rates, the tendency was to further weakness, offerings of money being increased by the supply of belated lenders who have wearied of having their funds in the call loan market.

GENERAL OPINION FAVORS GLOOMY TRADE OUTLOOK

London Considers Ease in American Money Matters Is Misleading.

Copyrighted Cable to the New York Evening Post.

LONDON, April 23.

There is a curious consensus of opinion at the close of the week, both here and at Paris, that the outlook for the autumn, and possibly for earlier months is rather grave. The excesses of London's speculation in rubber and oil shares are freely admitted as one ground for such misgiving, and an ultimate collapse in that department is no longer doubted.

Nevertheless, a great part of the prevalent anxiety centers upon the American position. Even those who have hitherto been most optimistic about your affairs are now taking an unfavorable view.

What they particularly fear are complications resulting partly from difficulty in your bankers' negotiating loans abroad, in bonds or in other forms.

The present ease in your money market is recognized, but that aspect of the situation, in the face of your unnatural foreign trade balance and the protracted drain of gold, is considered absolutely misleading. A feeling has also grown that your weekly bank statements are untrustworthy as an accurate reflection of the general position. In many quarters, indeed, it is believed that the ease in money is in a sense manipulated; that it is a strenuous attempt to make Wall street conditions outwardly favorable for the new bond negotiations.

It is now that the absence of any large purchases of American securities, by either the American or the British public, is telling adversely. Whereas London was formerly in a position to give financial assistance to New York at times of overtrading on your side, it is now concerned with its own injudicious speculations, and is sensitive on its own account to adverse outside influences.

Therefore the matter comes to this: London's expert opinion concerning the American situation—which, I may add, includes the view of many quarters in the real haute finance is distinctly gloomy perhaps two-thirds of this opinion must be attributed to London's doubts over your own position, and one-third to nervousness arising from recognition that our own speculative entanglements make up peculiarly apprehensive of unfavorable developments of any kind.

The break in our market for rubber shares this week, which has had a hand in creating these misgivings, was due to the wholly excessive creations of new securities, which are now plainly threatened to outrun the power of the market to finance. The real collapse of the oil and rubber boom is probably not yet at hand; but this fact, instead of being reassuring, is itself regrettable, because the longer the readjustment is postponed the worse its results will be when it does come.

All that I can say of your "steel dividend" rumors is that if the rate were to be increased next week it would have an unquestionably bad effect in London. We shall take more gold from your market unless your bankers can arrange to place large bond issues here to correct the exchange market.

The scandal of the forged bills of lading on cotton is exciting much attention—partly because it may prove the largest fraud of the kind on record; partly because of the wide industrial area affected, but perhaps chiefly because it has come to light at a most unpropitious moment when everyone was cautiously watching American finance.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., April 23.—Comparative receipts:

	Today.	Wk. ago.	Yr. ago.
Cattle	300	300	200
Hogs	1,500	4,000	3,600
Sheep	250	....	1,200
Horses and mules	50	200	50

NATIVE CATTLE—The receipts of native cattle were about 300, all being through cattle. As a consequence there was no market.

HOGS—The market was on a good, active basis and prices advanced 10@15c higher than any time yesterday. The top of the market was $9.60, making a gain from Wednesday, the low day of the week, of 45c. Bulk of the good hogs sold from $9.35@9.50. All buyers were in the market and the supply lasted but a short time. Pigs and lights were higher, as well as the heavier hogs, but they did not show quite the full advance. Packers paid $9.25@9.45 for most of their hogs. Best lights brought $9@9.45 and best pigs $8.50@9.

SHEEP—Only a few head of sheep arrived and there was no material change to the market. The week closes with prices a shade lower than a few days ago, but still on a very high basis. Spring lambs are quotable up to $12.50, clipped lambs up to $9.75, mutton sheep, $8.25 and bucks $6.25. None of the large slaughterers secured even half of the number this week that they really wanted.

HORSES AND MULES—The horse market was quiet and inactive throughout the day, all offerings having been disposed of yesterday. Fresh receipts for the day were light, approximating 25 head. The mule trade was rather quiet and inactive throughout the day, with prices firm and strong. Fresh receipts for the day approximated 25 head.

COTTON PRICES MOVE SLOWLY, ARE ABOUT STEADY AT CLOSE

NEW YORK, April 23.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 8 points on June, but generally unchanged to 2 points lower, which was about in line with the cables. New Orleans bulls bid the new crop months up a point or two, probably on cold-weather complaints, but there was no general business and the market later sagged off to a net loss of about 1@5 points under scattering liquidation. Reports that the Southern spot hour failure announced earlier in the week had caused heavy losses in both local and foreign trade circles attracted a great deal of attention.

The close was steady, with prices net 1 point higher to 4 points lower.

Liverpool close: Spot in limited demand; prices 5 points lower; American middling fair, 8.26d; good middling, 7.96d; middling, 7.83d; low middling, 7.72d; good ordinary, 7.46d; ordinary, 7.21d. The sales of the day were 4000 bales, of which 500 were for speculation and export and included 3600 American. Receipts, 9000 bales, including 7500 American.

WHEAT HIGHER ON LOW TEMPERATURE

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS IN BRIEF

CHICAGO, April 23.—Bullishness prevailed in the early trading in the wheat pit today and initial gains of from ¼c to ⅝c were well maintained through the first hour. Crop damage reports were again numerous, particularly from the Southwestern fields, where a reduced yield has been repeatedly predicted. Cold and storms in the Northwest are believed to have worked less havoc with the wheat crop there than in the Kansas and Nebraska fields. September was the favorite option and attracted much of the investment buying.

The distant delivery sold between $1.01 and $1.01¼. July worked between $1.02½@1.02⅝ and $1.02⅝@1.02⅞, while May traveled from $1.09 to $1.09½. Opening figures were: July, ¼c to ⅛c up at $1.02⅝ to $1.02¾; Sept., ⅛c to ⅜c up at $1.01⅛ to $1.01 and May ⅛@¼c to ⅛@⅜c at $1.09 to $1.09⅜.

Later in the session an improved demand gave the market a stronger tone all around. May advanced to $1.09⅝, July to $1.03⅛ and Sept. to $1.01⅝. Offerings were not large and the close was strong at nearly the top figures, with May 1@1⅛c up at $1.09⅞; July, ⅝c higher at $1.03⅛ and September ⅝c up at $1.01⅝.

The corn market held firm, with fractional temporary relapses. May went up to 58⅝@58⅞c, the other futures advancing with it. The close was strong, with May ⅛@⅜c higher at 58⅝@58⅞c.

Oats were firm.

Although the crop is not sufficiently far advanced for any extensive real damage to result, the severe weather throughout the Mississippi and Ohio valleys had a bullish effect on sentiment in the local wheat market Saturday. Prices were firm throughout and closed ⅝c to 1⅛c higher for the day.

Temperatures are below freezing in many sections, and apprehension is felt over the result of these conditions. This was the basis of a steady opening and the formation of a good demand. Cables were ⅝d higher, which encouraged the buying, the market being further strengthened by expectations of less bearish statistics.

Receipts were smaller and the tone in the cash market was improved. Prices advanced steadily and closed firm at the high points.

SERGT. M'MULLEN MADE LIEUTENANT BY POLICE BOARD

Promotion Follows Reorganization of Body With Reynolds as President.

Sergt. John J. McMullen, formerly head of the gambling squad but now acting lieutenant in the Magnolia Avenue District, was elevated to a lieutenancy Friday by the Board of Police Commissioners. McMullen probably will be assigned to permanent duty in the Seventh District, where he was sent after the transfer of Lieut. Thomas Donegan to the Angelica Street Station.

Patrolman William R. Caudle of Newstead Avenue District was rewarded with promotion also. He was advanced to a sergeantcy for his work in bringing about an expose of the shortage in the Police Relief Association's funds.

Following a get-together banquet at the Mercantile Club, as the guests of Hobart Brinsmade, the newest member, the Police Board went into executive session to receive the resignation of Col. John A. Laird as president. Following its receipt and acceptance, Col. Laird nominated Judge Matt G. Reynolds for the place. Hobart Brinsmade was elected purchasing member of the board, after which the doors were thrown open for the transaction of regular business.

Sergt. Craig Dismissed.

The case of Sergt. William E. Craig, charged with failure to make a report when ordered to do so by his superior officer, Capt. Reynolds, was called first. The Sergeant was dismissed from the force after a trial that lasted more than three hours, on the charge of insubordination.

A charge that Craig maintained two establishments was dropped by the board in the final determination of the case, although it consumed the greater part of the afternoon. Witnesses testified that Craig spent much time at 4612 Bell avenue, the home of Mrs. Louise Craig, where he appeared to be the head of the household. Craig's home was at 1320½ North Taylor avenue. There his wife, Mrs. Pauline Craig, resided.

Delegate Taussig is preparing to introduce in the House of Delegates a bill which, if passed and enforced, will make the whispering of breezes in Forest Park sound like the noise of a Cairo mob.

If Mr. Taussig has his way,
And under his benignant sway
All noise unnecessary
Is banned and barred, this good old town,
With many lids to hold it down,
Will seem a cemetery.

When babies cry till we're distressed
We'll threaten them with swift arrest;
We'll pinch the tuneless fairy
Who warbles when we fain would sleep,
And if a bird lets out a "cheep,"
We'll slay him, for how dare he?

If waters splash upon the shore,
We'll send a cop to look them o'er
And check their rude advances;
And if a neighbor asks us to
"Cough up" for him, (I know, and you)
We'll never take such chances.

MARK TWAIN'S BODY IS LYING IN STATE TODAY

Funeral Services in New York to Be Followed by Burial in Elmira.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Services as simple as his wholesome life attended the tributes paid here today to Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain).

New York City was but a stopping place in the dead author's last journey, as his body was brought here from his home at Redding, Conn., where he died, to be taken to Elmira, N. Y., for burial. But it was here that the chief expression was to be found of the loving regard in which he was held by the American people.

The Brick Presbyterian Church, at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh street, was selected for the funeral services this afternoon. Two close friends of Mr. Clemens were chosen to speak eulogies. They were the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, formerly pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, and now professor of English literature at Princeton University, and Dr. Joseph H. Twitchell of Hartford, a city for 17 years the author's home.

In keeping with the known sentiments of Mr. Clemens, the program included no vocal music and no pallbearers. Two organ selections, brief prayers and the few words of eulogy constituted the service.

Attending the services were representatives from the Lotos, the Authors' and the Players' clubs, prominent publishers and editors, eminent members of the bench and bar and literary men and women of note.

It was arranged for the body to be placed on a train and taken to Elmira immediately after the service at the church. At Elmira a second service, as simple as the first, will be conducted on Sunday afternoon. The burial will be in the Clemens plot in the Elmira Cemetery, where Mrs. Clemens and their children are buried.

HANNIBAL PLANS TO SAVE FORMER HOME OF HUMORIST

HANNIBAL, Mo., April 23.—The movement to purchase the boyhood home of Mark Twain here as a state memorial, to the noted humorist is being actively pushed by the citizens of Hannibal.

Senator Warner wired: "I earnestly favor movement to purchase boyhood home of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), as a memorial to a great Missourian."

Senator Stone replied: "No Missouri name adds greater luster to literature than that of Mark Twain. All Missourians are proud of his achievements and lament his death. His life is an inspiration to American youth, and I would regard the purchase of his home, as suggested, as a deserved tribute to his memory."

W. J. Hill, publisher of the Courier-Post, who broached the plan, is the leader of the movement. He communicated the suggestions to Senators William Warner and William J. Stone at Washington today.

CITY TO NEGOTIATE SCHOOL LAND FOR JUVENILE FARM

To acquire an industrial farm for the city's juvenile wards, members of the House of Delegates and Council will negotiate with the Board of Education for the purchase of 55 acres of land which the board owns on Clayton road in St. Louis County.

Under a resolution offered in the House of Delegates by Delegate Taussig, Speaker Rombauer of the House, President Gundlach of the Council and two members of each branch of the Assembly will be appointed to investigate the cost of the land.

Speaker Rombauer is the author of a bill requiring the Comptroller to set aside $[illegible] a year for five years as a fund with which to establish a new industrial school. Members of the House of Delegates favor a site in St. Louis County.

An 8% Stock in a Company That Earned $32,761,341 in 1909

You can become a stockholder in this great Company, owning or controlling the entire Bell Telephone System, long distance and toll lines, and the Western Union Telegraph Co.

What is This Great Company?

Organized in 1885, The American Telephone & Telegraph Co., owned and operated long distance and toll lines throughout the U. S. and Canada. In 1900 it took over the American Bell Telephone Co., together with control of 35 Bell Companies, covering the United States and Canada. It also controls the Western Electric Co., largest makers of telephone instruments and equipment in the world.

Acquires Western Union Telegraph Co.

Late in 1909, a substantial interest was acquired in the Western Union Telegraph Co. The same wires can be used at the same time for telephoning and telegraphing. Telegrams can be both collected and delivered by telephone. These are bare indications of the advantages to the Companies and to the public which this inter-relation affords. Improvements and innovations which will lead to greater public use of both methods of communication are now under study.

How the Company Has Grown

In 1900 the Company had 632,964 telephones in use. On Dec. 31, 1909, 5,142,692—or one for every seventeen inhabitants of the United States. The increase during 1909 was nearly 18%—a remarkable testimonial to the ever increasing public appreciation of the necessity of the telephone in business and social life.

The Company's Immense Income

The Company has two principal sources of income. The first and greater source is as a holding company; the second is as an operating company. As a holding company it owns a majority of the stocks and a large amount of bonds of the various Bell Companies throughout the United States and Canada; also the Western Electric Co. Its holdings in these companies amount to $360,466,159. On these securities, during 1909, it received in interest and dividends $26,610,644.

Earned $32,761,341 in 1909

This Company owns and directly operates all the long distance and toll lines which connect its subsidiary Bell Companies throughout the United States and Canada. The total gross income from this source in 1909 was over four million dollars. The total gross income from all sources for 1909, was $32,761,341.

Its Stupendous Property Assets

The holdings of actual, tangible, physical property of the Bell system amount to over $600,000,000—exceeding the total capital liabilities by over $35,000,000. Yet these assets do not include the incalculable value of rights of way, patent rights, franchises, etc.—rights of way alone having cost $8,000,000.

Its 28 Years Dividend Record

The annual dividends for 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909 have been 8%. The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (and its predecessor, the American Bell Telephone Co.) have never paid less than 7½% annual dividends during the past 28 years.

All Shares More Than Fully Paid

The sale of stock issues for cash at various times has had the result of yielding the Company more than enough in premiums above par to offset the shares issued in payment for patents, inventions and property. At the close of 1909 the premiums so received above par value of the total outstanding shares amounted to over $14,000,000. In other words, there has been received for every share outstanding a general average of $5.40 above par value of $100.

Owned by the Public It Serves

This great Public Service Corporation is really owned and held by the public it serves. The stock is held by 35,828 persons scattered all over America. The average holding is 47 shares each. This stock is listed on the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges.

You Can Be a Stockholder Too

Send to us for full descriptive literature. Study the facts and figures carefully. Compare the 8% dividends with the income you are now getting. Think of the 28 years record of never less than 7½% annual dividends. Think of the enormous property assets. And then remember the policy of the company to issue new stock to stockholders of record at par. If you don't know what this one feature means to your advantage, write us, and let us explain how valuable it is to you. No matter how much or how little you have for investment, you shall have our best attention.

Prematurely Old

How do your shoes wear? Do the uppers outwear two pairs of soles?

If not, you are probably using a shoe polish containing turpentine.

Turpentine dries the natural oil of the leather, causes the uppers to stiffen and crack.

"Turpentine" shoe polishes give shoes premature old age. Avoid them. You can tell them by their odor.

Mason's Black Shine will double the life of your shoes—by softening and rendering the uppers pliable.

And it will give your shoes a smooth, rich black polish. Not a blue black polish, nor a brown black polish—but a black, black polish.

ALTEN S. MILLER TAKES ISSUE WITH TRUST DEFENDER

Union Electric President Says Corporations Are Subject to Rule of the People.

President Alten S. Miller, of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., does not agree with the views of H. L. Doherty expressed in debate with Fred W. Lehmann, recently, and he took issue with the Doherty reasoning of the duties of corporations towards the people at a meeting of 200 members of the local section of the National Electric Light Association, Friday night. The meeting was held at Tenth and St. Charles streets.

President Miller declared that it is the duty of public service corporations to maintain frank and just relations with the press. "We should earn the good will of the newspapers," he said. "They mould and sway public opinion and make a daily impression directly upon the public. This can be done by a fair policy on the part of the corporation, with frankness and confidence. Guided by broad and enlightened management, the newspapers are seldom led astray. If they are deceived they soon learn it.

Defining a franchise to be the power of a corporation, President Miller said: "These rights are the creatures of law and exist solely by sovereign grant. They spring from the people, from that power which resides only in the people, and it is important for us to fully appreciate that all franchises are necessarily bestowed by popular will. They are privileges which the people have delegated to their fellow men, to do for them what they cannot reasonably do themselves."

President Miller also recognized the right of municipalities to regulate the conduct of public service bodies. Of this he said: "There is surely a right to the State to the reasonable control of the exercise of all rights and powers which have been granted; of course, not taking from the substance of the privilege bestowed by the charter. A corporation is an institution of the State or municipality, granted for the convenience of public functions."

TAGGART SPHINX SPEAKS; HE WILL MAKE THE SENATE RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 23.—Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman, has formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the United States senatorship. He said last night:

"I will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator under any circumstances. In the event that the coming state convention decides to take the matter up and make the nomination, then I will go before the convention as an aspirant for the nomination, and shall make as good a fight as I know how."
